Green Reinstated As Dry Officer

CZAR ORDERS COLONEL GO BACK ON JOB

Jury Acquits Prohibition Administrator for Northern California, Nevada IS FULLY VINDICATED

Official Freed of Charges That He Embezzled Rum Owned by Government

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Col. Ned M. Green, prohibition administrator for northern California and Nevada, suspended pending trial of charges of using seized liquor for his personal use, today was reinstated by Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Andrews, following his acquittal in San Francisco.

Andrews today sent Green the following telegram: "Heartiest congratulations. Orders issued today for your immediate reinstatement."

"WELL, THAT'S FINE," COMMENT BY GREEN

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Informed by the United Press that he has been reinstated as federal prohibition administrator for northern California and Nevada, and thus completely vindicated of the charge that he had embezzled government-owned liquor, Col. Ned M. Green today said:

"Well, that's fine." "The colonel, since last July, has been a little skeptical about making statements to newspapermen," said Theodore Roche, attorney who successfully defended Green. "Perhaps he'll have something to say later."

The embezzlement charges of which Green was acquitted last night by a federal jury, which deliberated only 16 minutes, were rooted in a "story" Green once volunteered to give Ivan Johnson, a young newspaper reporter and son of Col. Sam J. Johnson, then Green's chief aide.

Green's testimony indicated that a series of "expose" newspaper stories followed, leading to his indictment by the grand jury. Friends of the reinstated administrator today were credited with a report that Green will resume office for only a short period, principally to follow out his vindication. He then will retire to private life.

NAVY PAY CLERK AND MONEY GONE

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Los Angeles and San Diego county authorities were asked today to aid in the search for Charles A. Traugher, pay clerk of the U. S. S. California, who, according to naval authorities, disappeared with mess funds aggregating several thousand dollars.

Traugher has been sought by naval intelligence officers since his disappearance, November 8. Failure to find the money or to check on Traugher's whereabouts prompted the plea to civil authorities.

Rear Adm. Josiah McKean, commander of the 11th naval district, who turned in the report, refused to state how much money Traugher was accused of taking. It was intimated, however, that the sum exceeded $5000.

MIKADO NO BETTER

HAYAMA, Japan, Dec. 22.—Last night's optimism over the condition of Emperor Yoshihito, ill with pneumonia, was dispelled by a bulletin from the Imperial villa today, which said his condition was the most serious in several days. During the night, he was occasionally delirious, with his pulse 136 and respiration 33.

PADLOCK CAMPAIGN STARTS ON GAY BROADWAY RESORTS

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Three days before Christmas, prohibition was being enforced on Broadway in the greatest padlock campaign undertaken by authorities since the dry law was passed. Seven squads of police, prohibition agents, assistant U. S. attorneys and deputy U. S. marshals rested only temporarily in their campaign today,

WEALTHY WILL BENEFIT FROM NEXT TAX CUT

Rich Folk and Large Corporations to Receive Consideration

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A tax cut of between $400,000,000 and $500,000,000 probably will be sanctioned by the treasury when the seventeenth congress convenes, in December, 1927.

Treasury experts already are at work on data to determine just how much of a reduction can be allowed before the presidential election year.

Millionaires and big corporations will be the chief beneficiaries of the next tax slash, it was intimated today. The small taxpayer and the small corporations will not be greatly affected.

Only about one out of every 30 persons in the country paid income taxes this year and the big corporations and wealthy individuals carried the heaviest part of the burden, it was pointed out.

The treasury opposes further exemption for individuals. The department feels an exemption of $5000, for a married couple and $1500 for a single person is sufficient.

While the small taxpayer will not figure in the cut of the pie, everybody will be indirectly affected by any tax reduction, it was pointed out.

Purchasers of commodities help bear the tax burden of producers and distributors by paying a little extra for the commodity to help meet taxes on the other end of the buying chain.

War Taxes in Force

The only "war taxes" now in existence are on automobiles, amusements and pleasure clubs. As automobiles produce the only large revenue of these three, it is believed there will be little objection to repealing the admission and club taxes in 1927.

The treasury will not decide finally how much of a tax cut to propose until June, when the full effects of the new revenue bill can be ascertained.

BANDITS FLEE WITH RECEIPTS OF FIGHT

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Four bandits, each flourishing a gun, entered the Olympic auditorium, here today, while employees were checking on the proceeds of the "Newsboy" Brown-Young National prizefight, forced them to enter a vault and escaped with $3500 loot.

Police said the holdup apparently had been carefully prearranged by the bandits, after they had observed the large crowd which attended the fight last night.

The robbers fled in an automobile.

3 Surrender When Troops Use Tear Gas

(By United Press)

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Dec. 22.—Two brothers and a sister, who held 25 state troopers at bay in their farm house on Jutland mountain all night, capitulated today, under an attack of tear gas.

Only one of the brothers, Timothy Meeney, was erect when the troopers, behind the protection of the gas, burst into the barricaded house.

Miss Beatrice Meeney, his sister, was unconscious on the floor, a bullet wound in her left leg.

The second brother, James, was stretched out across a couch, blood pouring from a shattered knee, struck by a rifle bullet.

The wounded pair was taken to the Somerville hospital, where their condition is not regarded as dangerous.

Thus ended the siege, which began yesterday afternoon and lasted through the darkness of the night, and resulted in the wounding of two state troopers, Peter J. Smith and Matthew Dailey. Their wounds were said to be slight.

The trouble began when Trooper Alfred Larsen, of the Somerville barracks, accompanied a complaining member of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to the home of Timothy Meeney, a farmer, to act against him for alleged ill treatment to cows.

When Larsen and the agent arrived at the farm house, about 9 o'clock last night, they were met by a man with a club. Larsen took the club away from him, but another man came out of the house and fired on Larsen with a shotgun, but missed. The two men retreated into the house and Larsen left for reinforcements.

Several more troopers arrived and the house was attacked about midnight. Larsen and Corp. Matthew Daly entered the house, but were fired upon. Daly being shot in the shin and knee.

41 ARE INDICTED IN COAST BOOZE RING

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Forty-one alleged members of the Pacific coast's $100,000,000 rum gang were indicted by the federal grand jury here today.

The indictments, entirely unexpected at the time, were believed to be in the nature of a "precautionary measure" against holiday liquor running.

Ball for the 41 men was set variously from $3500 to $20,000. They are all charged with violation of the tariff act.

Frank Cornero, brother of Tony Cornero, reputed "king" of Southern California bootleggers, was named in a separate indictment. His bail was set at $20,000.

Others named in the indictments and their various bails were: Marvin Shouvelier, $15,000; Carlos Cuevas, $15,000; Larry Talbot, Gutman Grimsdell, Johnny McClockey and Russell Whitney, $10,000 each.

Early Liberty for Filipinos Opposed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Immediate independence for the Philippines was disapproved by Carmel L. Thompson, special investigator for President Coolidge, in his report on the islands, made public today by the White House. The islands of Mindanao and Sulu should not be separated from the remainder of the territory, Thompson declares, but American control should be strengthened in these provinces.

Bandit Binds 5; Frightened Away

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—A lone bandit today bound five employees of the Bank of Italy branch, at Fillmore and Post streets. He fled without loot.

Passersby, who displayed curiosity regarding his operations, are believed to have caused his sudden flight.

Employees said he threatened them with death in an attempt to force them to open the main vault.

Stock Dividends Quiz Authorized

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The senate today directed the federal trade commission to ascertain to what extent large corporations are evading taxation by declaration of stock dividends. Without objecting to the resolution introduced by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, ordering such an investigation, the resolution was adopted.

SOLON, WIFE AND SON DIE IN CAR CRASH

Assemblyman Murray, of Riverside, and Two Members of Family Killed

AUTO STRIKES TRUCK

Two Other Occupants of Death Machine Hurt; Infant Escapes Injury

(By United Press)

BAKERSFIELD, Dec. 22.—Deputy sheriffs, who investigated the accident on the state highway near here last night, which caused the deaths of Alfred C. Murray, state assemblyman from Riverside, his wife and his son, Alfred Jr., 3 years old, today declared they believed the accident was unavoidable.

The investigators said Murray, who was driving the automobile, apparently was blinded by a heavy rainstorm and did not see a truck, loaded with steel, in front of him, until it was too late for him to turn out. The automobile overturned.

Mrs. Mary Armstrong, Woodland, and Mrs. Lenhardt, San Bernardino, members of Murray's party, were seriously injured, but were reported to be "doing nicely" by hospital attendants here today.

Ward Murray, 1-year-old son of the legislator, was thrown clear of the automobile when it collided with the truck and was not injured.

The party was enroute to Woodland to spend the Christmas holidays with the father of Mrs. Murray.

SPECIAL ELECTION TO FILL VACANCY

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—A special election will be required to fill the vacancy in the state legislature caused by the death of Assemblyman A. C. Murray, of Riverside, who, with his wife and son, was killed last night, in an automobile accident in Kern county.

Such an election will not be called by Governor Richardson, who goes out of office January 3, unless requested by the voters of the assembly district which Murray represented. It was indicated at the governor's office today.

It was considered probable that a special election, whether called either by Governor Richardson or Governor-elect Young, will be held during the 30-day legislative recess.

Crack Trains On Santa Fe Crash

ASHFORK, Ariz., Dec. 22.—Official investigation was begun today into the crash of two crack Santa Fe passenger trains at the station here yesterday.

A number of passengers were severely jolted when transcontinental trains Nos. 2 and 19 collided, but none was hurt seriously. Several sleeping cars were damaged slightly.

According to investigators, No. 2, "The Navajo," crashed into the rear end of No. 19, "The Scout," which was standing in the local station. Both trains resumed their journeys after the damaged sleepers had been repaired.

Drives Auto On Tracks; Killed

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—A. A. Cody, 50, Fontana rancher, was killed instantly today, when a Pacific Electric train, inbound from San Bernardino, struck his automobile on Palmetto road near Fontana. H. C. Berg, motorman, said the train was traveling 50 miles an hour across the open country when Cody drove on the tracks, apparently unmindful of the danger.

JEWELER'S WIFE VANISHES WEARING $1800 IN GEMS

(By United Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Search today for Mrs. Avalona Carnevale, pretty 30-year-old wife of E. V. Carnevale, wealthy jeweler, who disappeared mysteriously, according to her husband, on December 7.

Mrs. Carnevale, it was learned, was wearing a $1000 fur coat and $1800 in jewelry when she vanished. Her automobile is missing too.

5 Drown When Bridge Span Falls

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Dec. 22.—Five men were believed drowned here today, when high waters in the Big Sandy river knocked a support from under a bridge span and 14 workmen tumbled into the icy water. Nine victims were hauled from the water soon after the accident, but no trace was found of the other five.

REPORT CITES PENNSYLVANIA ELECTION COST

Oregon, Washington and Missouri Charges Are Held Unfounded

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—A report citing as evidence the $2,500,000 expenditure in the Pennsylvania Republican primary and declaring charges of irregularities in the Oregon, Washington and Missouri primaries unfounded, was presented to the senate today by the Reed investigating committee.

The committee merely helped the testimony in the Pennsylvania case and made no recommendations as to possible action in connection with election of William S. Vare, Republican, who spent $300,000, or Senator Pepper, Republican, who spent more than $150,000.

Links Mellon Family

The report links the "Mellon family" to which Secretary of the Treasury Mellon belongs, with the contest in the following words: "The contest between Pepper and Vare was a factional contest for political control of the state, waged by Republican politicians in western Pennsylvania, dominated and led by the Mellon family and its interests against a Republican machine of Philadelphia, which William S. Vare controlled and operated as an inheritance from the late Senator Penrose."

The report also mentions the name of Cyrus E. Woods, whose nomination by President Coolidge to the interstate commerce commission is being tested in the senate. In this connection, the report states:

"About a month before the primary, W. L. Mellon, nephew of the secretary of the treasury, met Joseph R. Grundy by appointment in the Bellevue-Stratford hotel, in Philadelphia. As a result of the conference, Mr. Grundy, who had previously been opposed to Senator Pepper's candidacy, pledged support in exchange for the active support of the Mellon family and allies in western Pennsylvania for his candidacy, State Senator Fisher."

Woods is Enlisted

"The diplomatic talents of Cyrus E. Woods, former minister and ambassador to Portugal, China and Japan, were then enlisted by these two gentlemen to consolidate the ticket and insure harmony."

In relation to the Oregon inquiry, the report says:

"The hearings before the committee, held at Portland, Ore., were based upon the contents of a telegram sent by George Putnam, proprietor and editor of the Capital Journal, published at Salem, Ore., to the chairman of this committee, charging that the Portland Electric Power company had paid to the Portland Oregonian, a newspaper of general circulation throughout the Pacific northwest country, $35,000 for opposing the primary election of Senator Robinson N. Stanfield, and that no report was made of this contribution, as required by the statutes of the state of Oregon."

"Fifteen witnesses appeared before the committee and testified."

NATURAL MENACE WOULD BE CONVERTED INTO HUGE ASSET, REPORT DECLARES

Vote Favors Swing-Johnson Measure By 12 to 3, With Two Members of Irrigation Body Absent

FLOOD DANGER POINTED OUT

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Enactment of the Swing-Johnson Boulder dam bill, providing for construction of a gigantic power and irrigation dam at Boulder or Black canyon, on the Colorado river, will convert a natural menace into a national asset, the house irrigation committee said today, in reporting the measure to the house.

The committee's vote was 12 to 3, with two members, Representative Hudspeth, Democrat, Texas, and Reed, Democrat, Arkansas, absent. Those voting to report the measure were Representatives Smith, Idaho; Sinnott, Oregon; Leavitt, Montana; Winter, Wyoming; Swing, California; Arentz, Nevada; Allen, Illinois; Davenport, New York, all Republicans; Allgood, Alabama; Lanford, Georgia; Hill, Washington; Morrow, New Mexico, all Democrats.

Those voting against the bill were Representatives Leatherwood, Republican, Utah; Hayden, Arizona, and Whittington, Mississippi, both Democrats.

The committee report was divided into eight parts, covering the Colorado river and its characteristics and the Imperial valley; the Boulder canyon project, its development and plan; the Colorado river compact; flood control; reclamation and the all-American canal; domestic water; power and general explanation of the bill.

At the request of Representative Swing, California, co-author of the bill, Chairman Smith, Republican, Idaho, submitted the committee report to the house. Swing, it is understood, believes enactment of the measure will be facilitated by having Smith sponsor the report instead of himself.

In the report, the committee pointed out that both President Coolidge and Secretary of the Interior Work had urged development of the Colorado river. The committee listed its conclusions as follows:

"The bill should be passed because: "First—Congress should no longer risk a flood catastrophe to Imperial valley—a catastrophe which further delay only courts.

"Second—Reclamation possibilities in the lower basin should be safeguarded and taken care of before it is too late. Unless something is done, the river will be acquired for power development exclusively. Mexico is constantly building up added claims to its waters.

Must Meet Situation

"Third—The Mexican situation should be met. It is not sound policy to allow a condition to continue by which that country may and will go on using more and more water from the river and this at the expense of existing and future irrigation in the United States.

"Fourth—The government should aid its people to secure their necessities in the way of domestic water supply, where it can do so, as here, without cost, as an incident in carrying out other federal purposes, such as river regulation and reclamation.

"Fifth—It will convert a natural menace into a national asset.

"Sixth—A financial scheme is presented by which the development will be completely prefabricated, thus protecting the federal treasury and the general taxpayer.

"Seventh—It settles in large part water rights between states in a sensible and practical way, substituting interstate arrangements for interminable litigation and controversy.

While the project is of stupendous magnitude, the committee emphasized.

WILD DISORDER MARKS PASSING OF 'PORK' BILL

Measure for Rivers and Harbors Is Jammed Through Senate

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The senate adjourned for the holidays at 3:35 o'clock, this afternoon, after passing its second appropriation bill, the interior department supply measure, carrying $251,000,000. The bill now goes to conference.

The house also adjourned to January 3.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—With the rivers and harbors bill jammed through ahead of schedule, the senate today started work on the interior department appropriation bill.

The rivers and harbors bill was passed last night at a wild session in the upper house, in which last-minute amendments were passed amid disorder and cries of "Pork, Pork, Pork," from Senator King, Democrat, Utah.

The bill already passed by the house, now goes to conference. In its present form, it carries $70,000,000 for a wide variety of projects, including:

Flood prevention near Yuma Reclamation project, $100,000.

The course of the bill through the senate was one of compromises and trades, which were so effective that the bill passed by the overwhelming vote of 57 to 9.

An attempt to concur in senate amendments to the rivers and harbors bill, thereby completing enactment of the measure, was blocked in the house today.

Speaker Longworth refused to entertain a motion by Chairman Dempsey, Republican, New York, of the rivers and harbors committee, to agree to all senate provisions of the measure. Longworth said the motion was in violation of an agreement yesterday between the majority and minority leaders not to transact any controversial business today. The agreement was made so members could start for their homes for the holidays.

REPORT FAVORS COLORADO DAM CONSTRUCTION

sized that it would not burden the federal treasury or put weight on taxpayers.

"The financial burden," the report said, "is placed upon its immediate beneficiaries."

Describing the characteristics of the Colorado river, the report said the Imperial valley, during June, July and August, each year, is threatened with flood.

"In September and October, it is threatened by and actually has suffered from drought," it added. "Imperial valley lies like a great saucer, with the Colorado running along its rim from 100 to 300 feet above the valley's floor."

"The danger in which the Imperial valley always stands, of being flooded, necessarily creates a feeling of uncertainty."

High Interest Rates

"Property values are less than half of what the income from the property would justify. Money can be had only at excessive interest rates, while federal farm loan banks refuse to lend money on Imperial valley farms."

"The tremendous quantities of silt carried by the river gradually built a delta across the gulf, completely separating the northern from the southern end of the gulf. Evaporation unwaters the region thus cut off and left Imperial valley."

"The great reservoir will catch and hold the flood waters until they can be released at a rate which the river channel can accommodate with safety," the report said. "The plans of the government contemplates that 8,000,000 acre feet of the capacity of the reservoir will be set aside for flood control purposes."

"It will end an intolerable situation which now exists in Imperial valley. This valley now secures its sole water supply by a canal which runs for some 60 miles through Mexico. The all American canal will furnish a substitute for this and at the same time carry the water at an elevation to irrigate additional land, mostly public, lying about the rim of the cultivated area. Storage at the dam will provide sufficient water for the irrigation of Imperial valley and these additional lands. At present, Imperial valley, is subject to serious water shortages during the low flow of the river."

Conserve Flood Waters

"Flood waters will be conserved at the dam and reservoir which, besides providing for irrigation needs below, will provide for a much needed and urgent domestic water supply for the rapidly growing cities of Southern California. "The dam and reservoir will incidentally create a large amount of hydroelectric power, from the disposal of which the project will be in a large part financed. Under the operation of the project, the flow of the river below the dam will be regulated and even will be susceptible to use by power boats and other small craft."

The committee said it believes certain existing international complications would be brought to a satisfactory conclusion through construction of the enterprise.

Touching on the location for the dam, the committee said the overwhelming weight of opinion favored either Boulder or Black canyon. A dam at either place, the report said, will inundate practically the same territory.

Swing Expects Passage
A bitter fight on the measure is expected on the floor, but Representative Swing, Republican, California, co-author of the bill with Senator Johnson, Republican, California, today expressed belief it would be passed at this session.

"The project authorized in the bill harmonizes in every way with the highest economic development of the Colorado river," he said. "Chairman Smith said he hoped to get the bill up in the house under a special rule about the middle of January."

"It is a matter of great gratification," said Smith, "that, after four years of deliberation, the committee has been able to report a bill which is as nearly as possible perfect in accomplishing the end sought."

May Make Minority Report
Hayden, one of the bitterest opponents of the measure, said he had not decided whether he would submit a minority report, but he reserved the right in committee to do so.

The report of the house committee "is a deserved recognition of the merits of the Boulder dam project and a great personal victory for Congressman Swing," Senator Johnson, Republican, California, declared in a statement today.

"We have often pointed out the desirability of action upon the bill first by the house of representatives in order to avoid the parliamentary question sure to be raised that this is a revenue measure and therefore must originate in the house," Johnson said. "The rules of the house permit of speedy action and the approval of the administration makes certain that within a very brief period the Swing-Johnson bill will be passed by the house. Our hope is that we may be equally successful in the senate."

IMPERIAL VALLEY HOLDS CELEBRATION

EL CENTRO, Dec. 22.—El Centro and other Imperial valley cities staged a spontaneous and noisy celebration today, when news was flashed from Washington that the house irrigation committee had reported favorably on the Swing-Johnson bill.

There has not been as much excitement here since Armistice day. Factory whistles were blown, church bells tolled and impromptu parades were staged in downtown streets, hurriedly dressed up in bunting and flags.

Residents of this territory, who feel that their entire future existence is involved in the passage of the Boulder canyon dam measure, feel confident, generally, that the legislation will be enacted during the current session of congress.

INDICT SHERIFF OF YOLO COUNTY

WOODLAND, Calif., Dec. 22.—Surprise was expressed today by Sheriff James W. Monroe, of Yolo county, when he was informed of his indictment by a federal grand jury in San Francisco, yesterday, on 15 different law violations, including charges of co-operation with interests behind a huge $150,000 still, confiscated by drug agents, October 31.

"I am ready to stand full investigation," said the sheriff, who was re-elected by a big vote at the last election, after 16 years in office. He was elected during a trial in superior court on 18 charges, including giving liquor to prisoners in the county jail, and permitting gambling in the river town of Broderick.

Monroe today refused offers from many influential citizens of Yolo county to provide his bond as soon as the warrant is served, he said.

Borah Points to Enormous Waste

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—While the report of a government investigation of the books of the alien property custodian was on its way from the White House to the senate today, Chairman Borah of the senate foreign relations committee, in a debate over alien property administration, charged that hundreds of thousands and perhaps millions of dollars had been wasted, grafted and stolen in connection with the foreign property situation. President Coolidge was criticized by Senators Johnson, Republican, California, and King, Democrat, Utah, for his failure to make public the report of Controller McCall, of the treasury.

CITY'S TALL BUILDINGS NOTHING TO BRAG ABOUT

Any general panic would bring the greatest tragedy in our history—
This is municipal murder, and we allow it to go on.

HENRY H. CURRAN

That Proud Skyline Means Peril, Crowding and Ugliness

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The cock-a-doodle-doo idea, a civic pride is one of the direct menaces to the lives of workers in American cities.

Every day, millions of dollars are utterly wasted through idleness enforced by congestion.

The dance of death in crowded streets claims a number of victims every week that is equal to a major catastrophe.

"Oh, but these things are inevitable," says Municipal Pride. "We are a great city. We must have tall buildings to be truly metropolitan."

"Applesauce!" responds Henry H. Curran, who made the foregoing criticisms. "Babbitts and Babel towers are threatening our lives. Like weeds, cities are growing fast and tall. Also like weeds, they are giving no thought to cultivation."

This man Curran, who dares to call the haughty skyline by harsh names, is leading the fight against the skyscraper invasion of New York. He is counsel for the City club, which believes that decentralization is the only solution to an increasingly serious problem. He is a former soldier, once nominee for mayor and ex-commissioner of immigration.

"Probably our most startling argument against building congestion is furnished by this statement from fire headquarters in New York:

Seven-Deep In Streets

"If in the uptown theater and garment sections or in the downtown business district, all the buildings were emptied simultaneously of their usual throngs, the streets would be piled seven deep with humanity."

"This is not the nightmare of an alarmist," says Curran. "If a hurricane or earthquake did strike New York—even though only enough bricks and windows fell to create a panic—the greatest tragedy in our history would result from the sudden jamming of millions into the streets."

"Traffic conditions already are intolerable. Streets cannot be widened further; the city cannot afford to build more subways. Anyway, if we attempt to lessen congestion that way, relief is temporary. By the time new subways are completed, they are lined with new skyscrapers."

"These same conditions are true, to a somewhat lesser extent, in almost all our major cities today. Already there are more than 2,000,000 people who travel in and out of Manhattan every day in addition to the throngs that live on the island. By the end of 1926 plans will have to be filed for nearly 100 new factory and office buildings of skyscraper proportions. These will be occupied by 150,000 people—enough to fill 150 10-car subway trains."

Three Killed Daily

"Three persons are killed every day by motor vehicles in New York," says Curran. "This is double the death rate of five years ago, but still it increases. And one of these three dead is a child of less than 15 years. Where children lack parks, they seek an exciting game of hide-and-play with motor trucks—and too often the trucks win. This is municipal murder—and we allow it to go on."

"There are plenty of economic disadvantages to this concentration. Loss of time from congestion is almost incalculable; motor trucks have hours of enforced idleness every day. The skyscraper itself is not a good investment. Above the first two or three stories no more rent is realized than is necessary to pay the interest."

The answer to the skyscraper problem is decentralization, says Curran. That will mean smaller buildings and more space, room for motor cars and pedestrians to move quickly and safely. American cities must learn to grow horizontally. If they must have tall buildings, space should be provided around them that is equal in area to the room that would be taken up if the buildings were laid on their sides.

Same Problem In Chicago

"Chicago, with its small loop district, faces the same problem as does New York—the attempt to multiply many-fold the area of business districts," he pointed out. "Other cities, however, are bothered needlessly because of a mistaken municipal pride and inter-city rivalry. For instance, Detroit is to have an 81-story building—the highest in the world."

"Modern buildings, in the main, are ugly as sin. They are square, uninteresting blocks looking like up-ended trunks in a baggage room. A building ordinarily should be no higher than the street on which it faces. If it does go higher, it should have an additional equivalent of open space around its base."

"Strict zoning laws are the only way out. We do not object to skyscrapers simply because they are high, but because they mean congestion, traffic and consequent accidents, unhealthful crowding, lack of light and air, downright ugliness, and loss of time. Correct those faults and you may build a mile high if you like."

MOZLEY VICTOR IN FIRST DEFENSE CASE

C. N. Mozley, deputy district attorney of Orange county prior to December 1, clashed with members of his former office in court here today for the first time since his resignation—and won.
Mozley represented D. W. Allen, Hawthorne street car motorman, in the case charging Allen with petit larceny in connection with the alleged theft of three white Beavers rabbits, from Mrs. Laura Tucker, Anaheim.
Witnesses for the prosecution were not present and the case was dismissed, the state being allowed the privilege of presenting a new complaint later, however.
It was Mozley's first appearance in court as a defender since he resigned as a prosecutor.

FAMED SHILOH DRUMMER BOY STILL ACTIVE

WHITEWATER, Wis., Dec. 22.—
The "Drummer Boy of Shiloh" his comrades call him. The title won on the bloody Tennessee battlefield the morning of the Confederates' surprise attack, has been worn with great pride ever since by J. J. Downey, farmer-soldier, of Whitewater.
It was in the early morning hours of April 6, 1862, that the boy—he was then 14—gained fame as the first to beat the "long roll" that awakened the sleeping soldiers at Shiloh. The Confederates, under Beauregard and Johnston, knowing that Grant expected re-enforcements, made a forced march and attempted a surprise attack just before daybreak.

Downey, who had left Camp Randall, at Madison, just two weeks before, was with the 16th Wisconsin regiment, which was bivouacked on the outskirts of Grant's army. The boy had awakened early and heard the firing as the Confederates advanced, driving Grant's pickets back. Seizing his drum, he beat the famous "long roll," arousing the camp and saving the army from a complete surprise.

Signal of Attack
The "long roll" is a prolonged roll of the drums and is the signal of an attack by the enemy or for the troops to assemble in line rapidly.

"The fighting was terrible," Downey says, "and I wasn't used to it then, either. I was pretty light and the first few volleys nearly lifted me off my feet."

Downey's regiment lost 49 killed, 160 wounded and 160 taken prisoners. His captain, Oliver D. Pease, who had promised to take care of the boy when the latter parents consented for him to enlist, was fatally wounded.

Following the battle, Gov. Louis
P. Harvey, of Wisconsin, organized a relief train to go to the battlefield, picking up supplies, physicians and nurses in Madison, Janesville, Be-loft and other cities on the way. It was while on this trip that governor Harvey fell from a boat into the Mississippi and was drowned.

After Shiloh, Downey was transferred to the 23d Wisconsin regiment and at the end of the war he had attained the rank of drum major of the regiment. He was mustered out after four and one-half years of service when still only eighteen.

Official Drummer for G. A. R.
Downey now is the official drummer for the Wisconsin department of the G. A. R. He still remembers all the calls and gives them for the "boys" at the state encampments. He cannot handle the sticks as well as he used to, due to having had two or three fingers broken playing baseball.

At the national encampment at Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1917, Downey was given a loving cup by his Wisconsin comrades.
The drummer, although 60, is still a "boy" and his friends in Whitewater were not at all surprised last July 4, when the veteran arose at 5 o'clock in the morning, collected a group of five little boys, including his grandson, and marched up and down the streets sounding revelle on his drum. Those who planned to give the early serenader a good "calling," when they saw the marchers, joined in the cheering instead.

W. E. Garrett, of Huntington Beach, was arrested today, charged with reckless driving, as the result of an automobile accident in the beach city, yesterday morning, in which A. A. "Slim" Garrison, 814 Dawson avenue, Long Beach, suffered a broken back.

Garrett's preliminary hearing was set for January 25, in Justice of the Peace Warner's court, after he had pleaded not guilty to the charge.
Garrison is in a serious condition in the Seaside hospital, Long Beach.
R. J. Posson, of Lennox, who was a passenger with Garrison when the latter's machine collided with the car driven by Garrett, was not injured.

Court Notes

Case Is Dismissed
The case against John Torres, Delhi, charged with resisting an officer, following his arrest, Saturday night, was dismissed in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court today on motion of the district attorney.
The dismissal was asked in order that another complaint might be filed against the man, it was said.

Director Is Appointed
S. D. Teel was appointed a director of the Newport Drainage district by the county supervisors, late yesterday, to fill the unexpired term of Director E. R. Syllens, whose resignation was accepted by the board.

M'PHERSON CASE PAPERS PREPARED

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Preparation of the formal informations against Aimee Semple McPherson and her associates on three counts of perjury and conspiracy to obstruct justice was completed this afternoon, according to announcement by Deputy District Attorney
E. J. Dennison.

Named jointly with the evangelist were Kenneth G. Ormiston, former radio operator of Angelus temple,
Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, mother of Mrs. McPherson, and Mrs. Lorraine Wiseman, who had confessed and was a state's witness at the preliminary hearing of the woman pastor and her mother.

The informations were prepared at this time, according to Dennison, to consolidate charges against all the defendants and eliminate the necessity of holding a preliminary hearing for Ormiston. It means, the prosecutor said, that all defendants will face trial together.

Filing of the informations will be deferred until the return here from the east of District Attorney Asa Keyes, Denison added.

HUMORIST STARTS RUNNING BEVERLY

BEVERLY HILLS, Dec. 22.—Will Rogers, first mayor of Beverly Hills, began running the town today "like Hollywood used to be run."

"There'll be no reforms—let the town be wide open," said the cowboy mayor today, following an elaborate inaugural by the movie star citizens, who comprise his constituency.

"Hollywood was ruined by the reform movement. Scandal built her up in the first place. It was a good town until somebody yelled 'Reform' and Hollywood hasn't done anything since."

"We need sensation, not reform."
"What we want to do first is to get some beautiful young lady to shoot somebody. I could pick out the victim, and Doug Fairbanks the lady."

The mayor refused to pledge himself to "an honest administration."
"But I will split 50-50 with you," he told the Beverly Hills citizens in his inaugural speech.
"And if we can't make expenses that way, we'll turn the Beverly Hills hotel into a tabernacle. I'll do the preaching and Ben Turpin will run the radio."

Mrs. Werner Buys Valentino Portrait

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 22.—The full length portrait of Rudolph Valentino by the Spanish painter, Beltran-More, which Pola Negri used as a shrine when she mourned over the screen sheik's death, was purchased by Mrs. Teresa Werner, co-heir to the Valentino estate.

The canvas, which cost Valentino $6000, was bid in at the public auction of the late star's personal effects for a mere $400, although Miss Negri had announced she intended to buy it, "if it cost a fortune."

Mrs. Werner is an aunt of Natacha Rambova, second wife of the film idol.

CONFERENCE ON RIVER'S WATER IS DEADLOCKED

(By United Press)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—The tri-state parley for partition of Colorado river water and power between Arizona, California and Nevada, was deadlocked again today.

California and Nevada commissioners sought in vain to find some grounds for agreement with the Arizona representatives, and offered definite propositions for dividing the water, but the Arizonians continued to discuss, instead, the amount of royalties their state was to receive from the Boulder dam project.

Following the late afternoon session, it is planned to adjourn until after Christmas, when the debate will be resumed.

California delegates offered to allot Arizona 5,500,000 acre-feet of water now being used by that state from the Colorado river, conceding priority of all other vested water rights.

Nevada will be content with the 300,000 acre feet, her representatives said.

The California and Arizona commissioners were in a futile tangle over allocation of 1,035,000 acre-feet of domestic water for Southern California from the surplus in the Colorado tributary.

The Arizona delegation demanded a similar quota of domestic water for their state, proposing the remainder be divided after the allotment for domestic uses.

HEAVY RAINS CAUSE TENNESSEE FLOODS

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 22.—
Two days of continuous rains have caused flood conditions in middle Tennessee, unequaled for more than a decade, according to the local weather bureau.

More than 2000 telephones were out of order in Nashville, Tuesday, basements in the lower section of the city are flooded, fences washed away and water is standing several inches deep in many streets. Several highways and railways entering the city are inundated. Property damage will run high into the thousands.

Further danger threatens, with a forecast of more rain today.

TOP-NOTCH BANKER, BROKE, BEATS HIS WAY BACK AS OIL TOWN BAKER

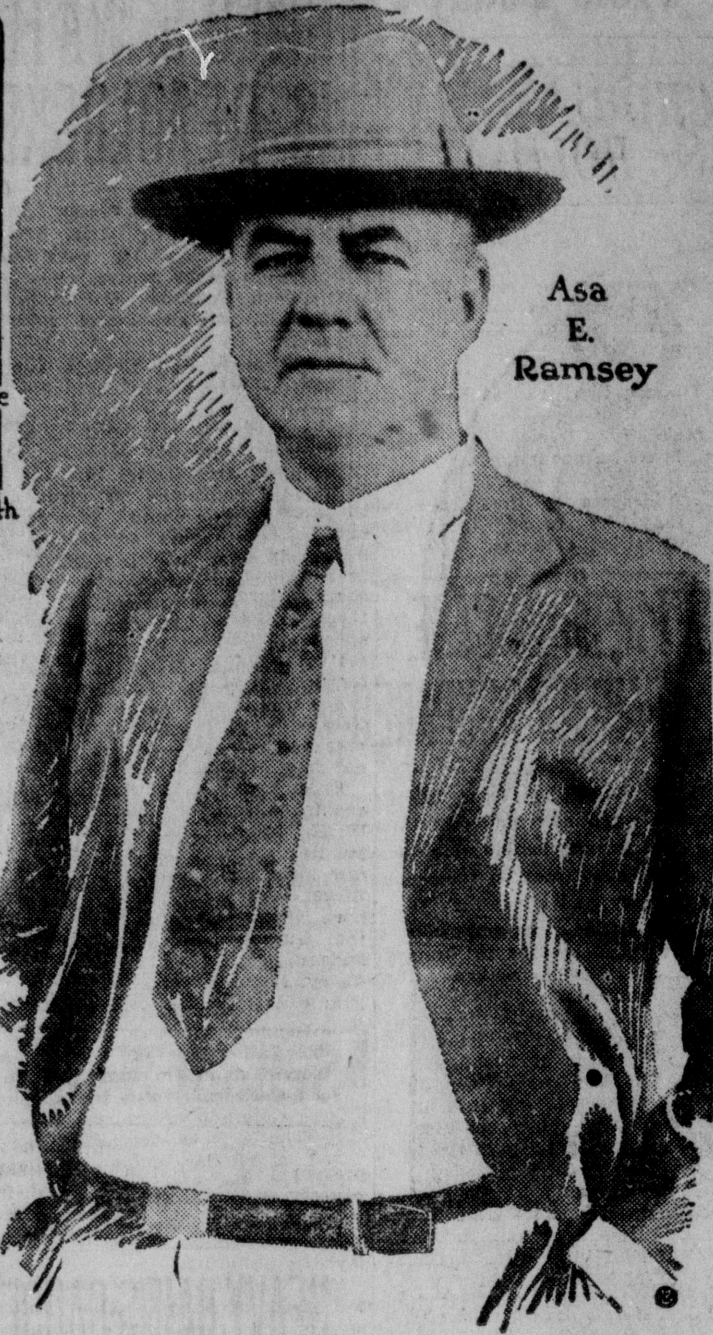

Climbed the ladder of finance to governorship of Federal Reserve Bank at Kansas City, amassing wealth the while

Took presidency of a leading bank at Tulsa, and wrote his fortune away to save it from disaster

Now, beating back, he is operating a modest bakery in the boom oil town of Borger, Texas

Asa E. Ramsey

Household's knee may be prevented by the use of his device, says an English inventor of a rubber pad to be used as a mat by those scrubbing floors.

Seven miles of scenic roads touching points of interest now inaccessible to automobiles are to be built in Kilauea National Park, Hawaii.

St. Ann's Inn, the ideal place to eat Christmas Dinner.

Former Federal Reserve District Head Laughs At Adversity

BORGER, Tex., Dec. 21.—Two years ago, Asa E. Ramsey was worth half a million. Six months ago he was flat broke. Today, beating back, he is accumulating a new fortune.

Ramsey, 52, former governor of the tenth district federal reserve bank of Kansas City, now is proprietor of a modest bakery here.

Until early this year, his life story was like that of many other successful financiers.

From a lowly position in a Sulphur Springs, Tex., bank, he climbed steadily until he became cashier of the National Bank of Commerce, Paul's Valley, Okla.; president of the Stratton Trust company, Purcell, Okla.; cashier of the First National bank, Muskogee, Okla.; president of the Oklahoma Bankers' association, and vice president of the Drovers National bank, Kansas City, Mo.

Federal Reserve Governor

Then he became governor of the Federal Reserve bank, and one of the west's financial leaders.

Then he resigned to become president of a leading bank of Tulsa, Okla. The bank's capital was increased and apparently there was a bright future before it; then, abruptly, it fell into difficulties.

It became necessary to produce half a million dollars overnight, to save the bank.

Without hesitating, Ramsey put up his private fortune. He saved the bank; but he left himself virtually penniless.

That was early this year. Borger, a typical western boom town, had just come into being here in the Texas Panhandle, where an oil boom of huge proportions was on.

Borger was reputed the country's wickedest city—but also the city where fortunes might easily be made. Ramsey came to Borger, where 10,000 people were making a city out of a lonely prairie waste.

Starts Again at Bottom

Many were making fortunes in Borger. But to do so one had to have either capital or luck. Ramsey had neither. So he set to work—at the bottom.

In a little shack, less than 20 feet frontage on a dusty business street, he started his bakery. He did most of the work himself, and Mrs. Ramsey put on an apron and helped him.

Business improved. Soon Mrs. Ramsey did not need to help, as there was enough money to hire workers. Now Ramsey, too, has ceased manual labor and confines himself to directing the enterprise.

Sales Are Mounting

The shop's sales total about $400 a day, and are rising steadily.

Ramsey's return to financial stability, incidentally, has been accompanied by a taming process for the town of Borger. No longer is this the country's wickedest town. Vice, gambling and fighting have largely ceased; Borger is notable only for its prosperity.

Ramsey's return to financial stability, however, was too busy to accept. He has, however, let his associates elect him president of the Chamber of Commerce.

His friends see him well on the way to becoming again one of the west's financial leaders.

American Goods Popular Abroad

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—Hats, boots and shoes, suspenders, handkerchiefs, and many other articles of wearing apparel are sent out from the United States to adorn citizens and subjects of other land on the globe.

Chinese merchants crave American felt hats, Argentine citizens keep their wealth in American-made pocketbooks, Japanese are supplied with shirts from American factories and their women folk use U. S. hosiery, according to commerce department reports.

The United States last year exported 1,497,000 men's and boys' hats, 2,608,000 cotton shirts, 425,000 dozen collars, 2,215,000 suits of underwear, 5,534,000 dozen pairs of hosiery, 286,000 dozen cotton handkerchiefs, 6,603,000 pairs of shoes, and 39,000 pairs of leather gloves.

Foreign travelers were supplied with 110,000 American suitcases and the world's writing needs were met by the United States with exports of $346,000 pencils and $32,000 fountain pens.

All Seats Free—No Collection

Has it not many times occurred to you that there must be some reasonable explanation of the cause of world-wide unrest, distress and perplexities? Where is the rational human being who has not often wished that things were different—who does not long for peace, happiness, freedom from pain and sorrow?

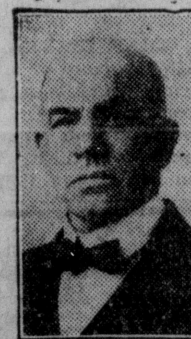

The divine plan for man's release from all causes of unhappiness is not only reasonable but genuinely heart cheering. The lecturer's subject is

Young Matron Employs Poinsettias in Her Decorative Motif

Taking the flame-tipped poinsettia as the prevailing motif in her Christmas decorations, Mrs. J. H. Daniger achieved a very lovely effect in the party she gave last night, entertaining the girls and young matrons of the Double L club in her home at 1020 Kilson Drive.

Garlands and streamers in poinsettia red, trailed their graceful length through the rooms, and in one corner, a Christmas tree, twinkling with lights, bore fruit of gifts over which each member had toiled for the one whose name she had drawn many weeks ago. Distribution of these gifts was one of the happiest features of the evening.

Progressive peanuts offered informal fun and Miss Jennie Pollard was rewarded with a pretty gift while Mrs. Carl Edgar was consoled. Mrs. Daniger then arranged card tables very attractively for serving a two-course supper.

Centering the white linen, was a poinsettia blossom which saw itself in miniature in the cut-cups and in a delectable poinsettia salad served with delectable little hot buttered biscuits. Plum pudding and coffee completed the appetizing supper in whose serving the hostess was assisted by her mother, Mrs. J. J. Williams, who has arrived from Pocatello, Idaho, to spend the holidays.

Double L members enjoying the hospitality of their sister member and the opportunity to greet her mother, were Mrs. William Penn, Mrs. George Chapman, Mrs. Carl Edgar, Miss Nora Lykke, Miss Jennie Pollard, Miss Elenore Loecherer, Mrs. William Strosheim, Mrs. Leo Schmitzberg, and one guest, Miss Dorothy Beckman.

Innomadina Club Holds Christmas Party in Riddle Home

Innomadina club members found their December meeting to be one of unusual charm and enjoyment when they were bidden to a luncheon instead of the customary afternoon session, by their hostess, Mrs. Harvey Riddle of 123 Orange avenue.

Mrs. Riddle's home was bright with Christmas greens and her table where the guests sought places for a delectable luncheon menu, was centered with poinsettias whose blazing colors were repeated in candies and nut-cups. Place cards were written for the hostess, Mrs. Riddle, her aides in serving, Mrs. M. C. Williams and Mrs. Margaret Leonard, a club guest; Mrs. L. D. Annis, Mrs. W. S. Chandler, Mrs. James Clark, Mrs. Jesse Elliott, Mrs. Joe Ryan, Mrs. J. R. Gilliland, Mrs. George Kiever, Mrs. Walter Moore, Mrs. J. H. Tompkins and Mrs. Ella Webster.

Harvey Riddle declared that his wife had delegated to him the duties of chef, and Masters Harvey Jr. and Edward, small sons of the home, were quite as busy as anyone.

In the afternoon, the climax of enjoyment was reached with the gathering around a tree for the distribution of gifts, each member having drawn a name some time ago, of one to whom she was to give a present. A surprise feature for Mrs. Joe Ryan, was the presentation to her of an oil painting of Mt. Shasta designed to be hung in the new home at 316 Myrtle street, which is almost ready for occupancy.

The day chance to be the birthday of one of the group, Mrs. Fred M. Robinson, so the others surprised her with a shower of very lovely handkerchiefs.

All the members but one of the intimate little club, were present, and it was regretted that Mrs. N. T. Edwards, of Orange, was unable to join the group for the special holiday meeting. The remaining members were the hostess, Mrs. Kellogg, Mrs. P. M. Robinson, Mrs. W. B. Williams, Mrs. Frank L. Andrews, Mrs. D. F. Cook, Mrs. Amos N. Cox, Mrs. J. B. Stewart and Mrs. Mary P. Matthews.

Christmas time is indeed the jolly time according to members of the Junior Girl Reserves of the Y. W. C. A. who gathered at the Y. W. rooms last night for their annual Christmas party.

A number of interesting games were played throughout the evening under the direction of Mrs. Ralph Raitt. Miss Vivian Rogers read a story, "Why the Chimes Rang," and the girls joined in singing several Christmas carols. Refreshments were served by a committee of which Miss Helen McPeak, secretary of the organization, was the head.

ALL READY FOR SCHOOL AGAIN AFTER CHRISTMAS HOLIDAYS

THE SHIRT IS NOW CONSIDERED SMARTER THAN THE MIDDY BLOUSE IN THE SCHOOL WARDROBES OF YOUNG GIRLS. WITH THE SHORT PLAID SKIRT, IT LENDS A DEMURELY SOPHISTICATED TOUCH TO THE COSTUME SHOWN AT THE LEFT. AT THE RIGHT IS A BROWN TWILL SUIT APPROPRIATE FOR GIRLS OF JUNIOR AND HIGH SCHOOL AGES.

The Christmas holidays bring an all-too brief interval during which the wise mother devotes much time and thought to repairing and renewing school wardrobes for her small children. Every mother recognizes that clothes count in the mental attitude of the child and therefore in his attitude to school. The child whose clothes are suitable and kept in good order, has the aid that a sense of well being brings, just as wholly as a woman has the aid to poise and self-possession induced by careful grooming and suitable costume.

The trend in children's clothing is toward a subtle compromise between simplicity and sophistication. Just as clothes for the adult have grown more simple every season, so too are children's plainly tailored, but with a svelte line never before seen in the junior departments.

The illustrated belted dress of brown twill demonstrates the simple smartness of the new dresses for the girl of high school age.

It is cut on slim, straight lines, with front and side insets of golden crepe de chine, trimmed with pink dots of brown flat chain stitch.

Belt, sleeve pipings and tie are of the same gold color, and the soft little felt hat is gold-toned also. Tan crepe-soled walking shoes are the newest thing for this type of school dress.

For the girl of 10 to 14, velveteen is a very popular school fabric. It is not to be surpassed for beauty, warmth and durability.

Clothes for the little girl entering the grades are quite as sophisticated as for the older girl. A new and charming idea is given by a French designer for children, who produced the illustrated short plaid wool skirt, and the tailored skirt of finest English cotton broadcloth.

Much smarter than the old middy blouse, the skirt comes in pale colors harmonizing with the plaid skirt. The cotton broadcloth washes excellently. With such a costume, the hat of wood brown felt, trimmed with a ribbon rosette and a tiny bit of rabbit's fur, is also eagerly fetching.

These costumes are suitable for girls from 6 to 14.

Football Letter Men Are Entertained At Dinner

Celebrating alike, the close of the football season, arrival of the Yuletide and the birthday of their son, Dean Miller, captain of the high school football team, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Miller of 510 West Santa Clara avenue, were hosts recently at a delightful dinner party complimenting the letter men of the organization.

School colors of red and white fitted admirably into the Christmas season, and the table presented a festive scene with its suggestion of the season of vigorous sport just ended. Even place cards were miniature footballs. A particularly inviting menu was served by the song leaders who have played picturesque part in the autumn's sport activities. The final course featured a towering birthday cake for the son of the home.

A surprise feature to the coach, Gerald ("Tex") Oliver, was the presentation to him of a handsome hat from his team.

Enjoying the hospitality of the evening were Coach Oliver, the Rev. W. H. McPeak, and the sixteen letter men, Captain Dean Miller, Captain-elect Jack Blakeney, Chester Siegel, Ralph Selway, Charles Ehrhron, Francis Harvey, Stanley Norton, Guy Harvey, John Gallagher, Judson Riley, Hubert Prior, John Casey, Bomo Koral, William Dotts, Frank Wurster and Warren Cooke.

School News

The children of Delhi school presented a beautiful Christmas pageant last Friday afternoon in the school auditorium. A large number of parents were present to enjoy the program.

The Christmas story was told by Mrs. Kellogg. The entire school took part in the choruses, which were as follows: "Silent Night," general; "Noche de Paz," by the girls' chorus; "O Little Town of Bethlehem," by the second grade; "Away in a Manger," first grade; "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks," fourth and fifth grades, with solo by Josephine Saenz and chorus by the angels; "It Came Upon the Midnight Clear," third grade; "We Three Kings of the Orient Are," fourth and fifth; "Joy to the World," entire school.

The following pupils were the principal character: Cuca Esparza, as "Mary," Gilbert Cruz as "Joseph," Josephine Saenz, "The Shepherds," Rachel Camarillo, Leonora Lujau and Carmen Pardo, "Angels," Henry Cruz, Paul Lujau, Julian Farfan and Isidor Alvarez, "Shepherds," Jerry Lopez, Antonio Placentia and Frank Macias, "Wise Men."

A large Christmas tree adorned one end of the stage and immediately following the pageant the children were made happy with Christmas treats. These treats were made possible through the generosity of the Shriners, Julia Lathrop students and the city P. T. A.

In the morning the girls from the Every Girls' club of Julia Lathrop played Santa Claus to the kindergarten pupils. Toys and candies were given, much to the delight and happiness of the little ones.

Attendance Rewards
Rewards for regular attendance during the months of November and December were given to the following:

Second grade, Aurelio Tirado, Billy Gallegos, Tiofilla Olivares, Mariana Palencia, Maria Pedrosa, Salvador Pena and Daniel Flores.
Third grade: Everardo Montijana, Jesus Flores and Aurora Martinez.
Fourth grade: Rachel Camarillo, John Esparza, Leonora Lujau, Ylaria Lujau, Bernabe Martinez, Jose Pena and Mercedes Vasquez.
Fifth grade: Isidor Alvarez, Gilbert Cruz, Henry Cruz and Julian Farfan.

Speech and accuracy tests on the multiplication tables resulted as follows: Pauline Murietta, first, and Ysabel Bravo, second, in the third grade; Gregoria Pedrosa, first and Lupe Lopez, second, in the fourth grade; Antonio Placentia first and Amalia Lopez second in the fifth grade.

Rug Making
The girls in the sewing classes have been busily engaged in making braided rag rugs.

SERVICES FOR MEXICANS ARE BEING PLANNED

The high school Christian Endeavor society, of the Presbyterian church, Orange, will present a Christmas program tonight at the Orange Mexican Friendly center. The program has been arranged for the occasion by Mrs. E. C. Haines, a leader of the Christian Endeavor society. Following the example of the Orange Presbyterian church, other churches in that city are planning Christmas programs for the benefit of the Mexicans. A Christmas cantata, "The Spirit of Christmas," will be presented Sunday night and all Mexican families are invited to attend. This same cantata will be given in El Modena Saturday night. Evangelistic services will be held every day during the week following Christmas. Mexican preachers from various churches in the county will make addresses. On New Year's eve there will be a watch service and special services will be held on New Year's day. Yuletide rejoicing will come to an end January 2, when consecration services will be held. In order to aid in the missionary work, Mexicans in Orange will sell Scriptural calendars at the plaza.

Postmaster for Pietown Named

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Dec. 22.—New Mexico has a town that was built by a pie salesman. Several years ago a man opened a "pie counter" on the transcontinental highway in Catron county. Pies for tourists proved so popular a community grew up there and the town became known as "Pie-town." Now the government has recognized the town and approved the appointment of a postmaster there.

Word from Mrs. Susan Mullinix of 1414 1-2 North Main street, who has been ill for some months, is that although she is resting comfortably, there is no improvement in her condition.

Mrs. Olive Peeler of the Grand Central apartments is enjoying a visit from her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Bosse of Amarillo, Tex., who are here to spend the holidays. Mr. Bosse is a prominent broker in Amarillo. Mrs. Peeler met her guests in Los Angeles.

Miss Louise Van Dien, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Van Dien of 517 Cypress avenue, is at home for the Christmas holidays. Miss Van Dien is a student at Pomona college.

Fred Johnson, son of W. Dean Johnston, who attends Stanford university, is at home for the Yuletide vacation.

Mrs. F. L. Andrews of 510 South Ross street returned on Sunday after a week's visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hess at Pasadena.

Tom Kirven, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Kirven of West Seventeenth street, arrived today from Big Creek (where he has been with the Edison company for more than a year), to spend a two weeks' vacation with his family. The young man was accompanied by his friend, Mr. Wilmott, the visitors driving through by automobile. Mr. Kirven selected a beautiful tree from where it stood deep in snow, for the family's Christmas celebration.

A. C. Mosher of 1522 Bush street has as his Christmas guests, his daughters, Mrs. Eva Williams and Mrs. Neva Smith, both of Redondo Beach. The sisters have many friends here and years ago, when they lived in El Modena they were known as "the Mosher twins."

Miss Eunice Jones of 1401 Bush street is among Santa Ana teachers in Los Angeles in attendance at the teachers' institute.

Mrs. Thomas L. Inch of Los Angeles motored to Santa Ana yesterday and was accompanied home by her mother, Mrs. Alice Turner and her sister, Mrs. Jackson, who will spend Christmas at the Inch home.

Mrs. J. S. Chandler and her daughter, Miss Pauline Chandler, of Alhambra, were week-end guests at the home of Mrs. Chandler's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John P. Baumgartner, 1718 North Main street.

Mrs. A. M. Gardner of 323 East Washington avenue will entertain her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Price of Los Angeles over Christmas. The family reunion will be held in Fullerton at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Knowlton, the latter being Mrs. Gardner's daughter.

Miss Fannie Smart, who teaches at San Diego, arrived today to spend her Christmas vacation here with her mother and sister, Mrs. W. M. Smart and Miss Mary Smart, 714 North Main street.

Mrs. J. J. Compton who makes her home with her friend, Mrs. Pauline Decker of 217 South Main street, has gone to Los Angeles for a few days' visit with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Timmons of the Decker apartments, 217 South Main street, will go to San Diego Friday to spend Christmas at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Timmons.

SUPERVISORS THREATEN TO ROB BEN HUR OF HIS FAME

Another 10,000 was added to the advance attendance estimate for the 1927 Orange county fair, when Manager J. R. Hunt was informed today that George Jeffrey and Bill Schumacher would be on hand with a special attraction.

Schumacher and Jeffrey, who help supervise the county, and operate ranches as a side line, are going to stage a Roman race at the next fair, they threatened. Hunt is trying to stop it, but says he has little hope, as both men have taken the bit in their teeth. It all developed at a board meeting, where most of the county's mischief is generated, according to Hunt.

"I'll challenge anybody on this board to a tractor driving contest," proclaimed Jeffrey. "That's where you belong, all right, meaning tractors," was Schumacher's dirty retort, "but if you'll make it horses, I'll take you on." Jeffrey's friends succeeded in holding him and details of the contest finally were arranged by the seconds. It was at last agreed that each man should drive one horse and one tractor.

Chairman Tom Talbert tried to enter his King Tut turtle, which starred at the last county fair, but Jeffrey and Schumacher were insulted and ignored Talbert the rest of the day. They agreed on William Smith as starter, Smith having just finished one recent race and not desiring another.

Colonel Finley was invited to enter the race and promised that, if he succeeded in harnessing the waters of Colorado river by that time, he certainly would do it, and he wouldn't give a Boulder dam for his colleagues' chances.

DUTCH LEONARD WILL NOT TALK TO REPORTERS

FRESNO, Calif., Dec. 22.—"Dutch" Leonard, whose statements to Judge K. M. Landis, baseball commissioner, resulted in an exclusion of one of the biggest scandals in baseball by the commissioner, refused to see newspapermen today.

Leonard, who lives on a farm near here, plans to issue a signed statement, according to his wife, but when this statement will be given out she declared she could not say.

Mrs. Leonard is acting as secretary for the former big league ball player while he remains in seclusion, answering the telephone and greeting visitors at the door of her home.

"I am sorry but Mr. Leonard is not seeing anyone," she said when asked if Leonard was at home. "He will issue a statement later and until that time he will grant no interviews. That statement will be given to all newspapermen at the same time."

"I am sorry if I seem rude but we must treat everyone the same way. There has been someone telephoning or calling here every half hour since yesterday morning."

"Mr. Leonard absolutely will not see anyone now. No, I do not have any idea when he will issue the statement."

Mrs. Leonard's statement this morning was the first indication of Leonard's intentions since he was informed of the statement of Commissioner Landis yesterday morning, when he refused to speak about the sensational disclosures.

$230 DEMANDED FOR AUTO HURTS

Injuries received by Godfrey Beckman, when he was struck by the automobile of J. A. Wilkes, while walking along Jefferson avenue, near Olive, last July 15, were made the basis of a suit for $230 damages, just filed in superior court.

Beckman claims that his collar bone was broken, his scalp torn and his right shoulder sprained. The precipitation was .15 of an inch. He asks $5000 for permanent injuries, $3000 for pain and suffering and $230 costs. Attorneys Scarborough, Forgy and Reinhaus

Hunt Treasure of French Buccaneer

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 22.—Mysterious bands of treasure hunters still range across the Louisiana marshes. They are seeking the buried spoils of the pirate, Jean Lafitte.

The buccaner is said to have cached vast stores of doubloons and pieces of eight along the great coastal stretch southwest of New Orleans.

Reported discovery of a buried treasure near Vermillion bay a year ago caused considerable excitement.

One party of treasure seekers went so far as to pull up a post set by government surveyors, evidently believing that the stake was one of the markings made by Lafitte.

It is said that two members of Lafitte's band once lived in the vicinity of the city of Lake Charles.

CHILD LIBRARY DECORATED FOR YULE HOLIDAYS

Three wise men, hurrying eastward in search of the new-born King, is one of the most beautiful of Christmas memories, according to Miss Helen Randall, head of the children's department of the city library, who has spent much time in decorating the department for the Yuletide holidays.

It is for this reason that Miss Randall has given the chief place among the holiday prints to one of the three wise men. It has been placed opposite the door, where it easily can be seen, and it calls forth much comment from the children, Miss Randall said.

Other signs of holiday activity are the red balls, large and small, hung about the room, the tall red candles, the strands of red trimmings and, most important of all, the Christmas tree.

The tree is decorated in tinsel, made beautiful by the reflection of lights on the tree.

On the tables appear books appropriate for this time of the year.

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Dec. 22.—Mrs. Ed. Sexton and children were in Santa Ana Monday.

Mrs. Carl Romer and son, Carlos, shopped in Santa Ana Monday.

Harvey Henry is home from the Army and Navy academy at San Diego for the holiday vacation.

Mrs. Bernard Bird and Mrs. Harold Carson of the Hotel Los Rosas, were in Santa Ana Monday.

Carl Hankey's Sunday school class of the Community Presbyterian church decorated the Christmas tree Tuesday night. They also practiced carols to sing Christmas eve.

The January meeting of the Parent-Teacher association will be held the evening of the second Wednesday instead of the first Wednesday, to accommodate the speakers of the evening, whose names will be announced later. Dr. Hugh McNinch will have charge of the program.

Mrs. D. M. McHenry and daughters, Elva and Mary, were in Santa Ana Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hankey and children visited in Santa Ana Monday.

Mrs. J. Fletcher and sister, Clarice, were in Santa Ana Monday to see Santa Claus.

Mrs. William Bathgate and son, Billy, and Beatrice Allen, shopped in Santa Ana the first of the week.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Raymond Henry were in Los Angeles on business Monday.

Christmas exercises at the Community Presbyterian church will be held Thursday evening.

Dale Thomas shopped in Santa Ana Monday.

Mrs. J. O. Forster and Mrs. Frank Forster shopped in Santa Ana Monday.

Mr. Harris and son, Lee, went to see Santa Claus and his reindeer in Santa Ana Monday.

Pancho Forster, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Forster, is home from the Page military school, Los Angeles, for the holidays.

Mrs. William Harrison and Miss Hazel Harrison shopped in Santa Ana the first of the week.

Miss Hazel Guilbert visited relatives in Santa Ana Monday.

Miss Polly Ross, Hazel Harrison, Sara Ross and Mary McHenry visited friends at San Clemente Sunday afternoon.

Miss Ida Howard attended teachers' institute in Los Angeles this week. She will visit with friends in Ventura over the holidays.

Willie Jimenez shopped in Santa Ana Monday.

For kicking a puppy so hard that it died, William Manson, of Hull, Eng., has been sentenced to three months' hard labor.

Stock Dividends Probe Threatens

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—A resolution, intended to disclose the extent to which large corporations have evaded taxes by declaration of stock dividends, was introduced in the senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska. The resolution would call upon the federal trade commission to ascertain names of corporations which have declared stock dividends since the supreme court decision holding such dividends non-taxable and the amount of the dividends so declared.

ORANGE COUNTY IS VISITED BY FREAK STORM

A freak rainstorm, from the ocean, made a brief visit to Orange county and the Southland yesterday afternoon and deposited moisture varying in amounts according to location.

In Santa Ana and Anaheim, the precipitation was .15 of an inch, while in Fullerton the recorded fall was but .03, reversing the usual situation of Fullerton and other northern county sections receiving the greatest amount of rain during a storm.

The freakishness of the storm was further demonstrated by the fact that at Irvine only .07 of an inch fell, while at the Irvine home ranch the precipitation was .26.

The two points are approximately the same distance apart as Anaheim and Fullerton.

The season total for Santa Ana is 3.46 inches, compared with 3.50 inches for this date a year ago.

The fall in Anaheim is nearly two inches more than a year ago, the record for today being 4.92 inches, with 2.94 inches being the record for one year ago today.

Temperatures were low at 6 o'clock this morning, but no serious damage in the county was reported. At 6 o'clock this morning the thermometer registered 32 degrees in Anaheim and 35 degrees in Santa Ana.

Orange received a little more moisture than Santa Ana, the registration there being .20. Villa Park, three miles east and north of Orange, had .25.

WEATHER IS FAIR THROUGH SOUTHLAND

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—Fair weather prevailed throughout Southern California today, following a general rain, which visited the entire Southland territory, from the sea to the mountains.

Temperatures were lowering and by tonight another cold wave will hit this section, according to the official forecast. Frost, however, is not expected.

Rainfall during the last 24 hours was recorded as follows:

Los Angeles, .08; San Diego, .22; San Bernardino, .74; Santa Barbara, .22; Riverside, .50; Redlands, .23; Pomona, .32; Pasadena, .40; Newport Harbor, .09; Escondido, .16; El Cajon, .33; Corona, .13; Bonita, .34.

FARM YOUTHS' CAMP

The date for the next national farm boys' and girls' club camp to be held in Washington, D. C., has been set for June 16 to 22, 1927.

The boys and girls attending the camp will represent all states in the country and more than 600,000 members of the farm youths' organization.

TALKS FEATURE S. A. EXCHANGE CLUB MEETING

Impromptu talks featured the meeting, yesterday, of the Exchange club, the short addresses by members being developed at the meeting in lieu of a prearranged entertainment program.

Carl Mayer, an absentee for several months, was present and related his observations on a tour through 23 states and two provinces of Canada in company with his father.

He recited an instance in Superior, Wis., which conveyed, generally, the impression easterners have of California.

An urchin of the street approached Mayer and asked what license plate his car carried. When informed it was a California license, the lad held out his hands and said, "Gimme some fruit."

"When California is mentioned in the east, people think of fruit," Mayer said, and he stated that wherever he went he found California products, either fresh or canned.

John Ott, superintendent in this district for the Southern Counties Gas company, and Gene Hayes, two names recently added to the membership roster, spoke briefly.

As did James Irvine Jr., and Leslie H. Eckel, deputy county auditor, who were guests at the meeting.

Saxophone solos by Les Schraeder, with Irving Doyle accompanying on the piano, were the musical features of the program.

REPORT ON WINTER WHEAT IS ISSUED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—The condition of winter wheat on December 1 was 81.8 per cent of normal, compared with 82.6 per cent on Dec. 1, 1925, the agriculture department has announced.

The condition of rye was placed at 86.3 per cent of normal, compared with 83.8 on Dec. 1, 1925.

An area of 41,807 acres of winter wheat was sown this fall.

This area is 5 per cent more than the revised estimate of 39,799,000 acres sown in the fall of 1925, the department announced.

Revised estimates placed the sowings in the fall of 1924 at 39,948,000 acres.

"Farming by the moon" is rapidly going out of style. Meteorologists claim that the moon has nothing to do with any of these conditions affecting crops. Even the light of the full moon is not nearly intense enough to have any effect on plant growth or plant diseases.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Dec. 22.—Guests for the Christmas holidays at the home of Mrs. Lillie Shafer Moore, where a family reunion and house party will feature the holiday season, will include Mrs. Moore's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Haptonstall, of Olaty; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Shafer and family of Davis, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Collins and children, of Los Angeles.

A special feature of the Sunday morning service at the Wintersburg Methodist church was the Christmas collection, which is an annual event for missionary service.

Twenty dollars was the amount collected this year. The money will be used to assist the Methodist Mexican mission, at Westminster.

The Christmas theme was introduced at the morning and evening services by the pastor, the Rev. J. R. Carpenter and special musical numbers were given by members of the pastor's family at both services.

Mrs. Carpenter played the flute, Charles Carpenter, the piano and David Carpenter, the eldest son, who is home from Polytechnic college at San Luis Obispo, the violin.

Mrs. J. P. Ranney was hostess Monday afternoon at a demonstration by Mr. and Mrs. William F. Marshall and Lee Curtis, of Los Angeles, of aluminumware.

Present at the demonstration were Mrs. E. M. Fox, Mrs. W. F. Slater, Mrs. George Gohard Jr., Mrs. William Preston and Mrs. David Russell, of Wintersburg, and Mrs. L. A. Arthur and daughter, Mrs. Ted Goltchak, Mrs. W. G. Walker, Miss Alice McGuire, of Huntington Beach.

Word has been received by friends of H. Thompson, who was formerly a salesman for the Standard Oil company at Huntington Beach, of the death of Mrs. Thompson on last Saturday, following an illness of but a few days.

Mr. Thompson is salesman for the General Petroleum company.

Bert Carey has opened 10 acres just across from Liberty Park, south of Wintersburg, for subdivision. The plot is all laid off and several sales have been made, it is understood. A water well is being drilled this week by Frank Page, well driller.

Beverly Cunningham, who is making her home with her grandmother, Mrs. E. E. Houghton, is ill this week.

Mrs. C. P. Lambert and son, Robert, spent Monday in Los Angeles shopping.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. James, of the Liberty Park tract, left Tuesday for Bakersfield to spend Christmas with relatives.

The E. M. Fox residence is receiving a coat of paint.

Two of the children of the H. V. Jackson family have been ill. Mrs. Jackson, who is employed at the Smetzer bean warehouse, is spending the week at home.

Thursday evening is the date for the Wintersburg Sunday school Christmas tree.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Steck entertained a party of relatives from Colton in their home last Sunday.

The visitors included Mrs. Steck's nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Hunter, and three children, her sister, Mrs. Laura D. Sisson.

Mrs. Mary E. Clemens arrived in Anaheim Sunday from the Stockton islands, where she has spent the past several years with her son, Reuben Clemens, whose marriage was a recent event.

Mrs. Clemens, who has still her home in Wintersburg, where she was for many years a resident, will again make her home here and will come this week from Anaheim following a short visit with her daughter, Mrs. Jim Maddux.

Mrs. Sim Teneyck and children motored Sunday to Fullerton, where they were guests of Mrs. Teneyck's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. George Gano. Doris Teneyck remained and will spend the week at her aunt's home.

Robert Teneyck left Saturday for Capistrano, where he will spend his first week of vacation with his father, who is employed in that section on road construction work.

PAIR ARRAIGNED ON AUTO THEFT CHARGE

Two men, charged with grand larceny, in connection with the alleged theft of an automobile from a Santa Ana street last Saturday, were arraigned yesterday before Justice Kenneth Morrison. Examining trial was set for tomorrow, at 10 a. m., and bail was fixed at $2000 each.

The men are Ronald Fitzgerald, 25 and James McDonald, 26, of San Diego.

Arrest of the two men was made by Los Angeles police, who notified Santa Ana city officers. The men were brought to jail here Monday by Sid Smithwick, assistant city marshal.

The automobile is owned by Edward H. Burns, Santa Ana, and was reported stolen from a place where it was parked near the Hall of Records.

Neither of the men was able to make bail.

RECKLESS DRIVER DRAWS SENTENCE

Charged with reckless driving, following his arrest, yesterday, on the state highway, near the Orange County hospital, Charles Dupont, 50, pleaded guilty today in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court and was fined $250.

Unble to raise the money for the fine, the man was sentenced to jail.

F. G. Yoder and Ernie Sawyer, state officers, arrested Dupont, who was driving a truck, loaded with apples, to San Diego. Two friends of the man, in the truck with him at the time of arrest, were not held.

Beach Man Held On Fraud Charge

Returned here from San Francisco, where he was arrested on a charge of defrauding an innkeeper, Charles Williams, Laguna Beach, pleaded not guilty to the charge yesterday, in Justice Kenneth Morrison's court, and examining trial was set for December 23, at 10 a. m.

Bail was fixed at $500, which he was unable to post.

Williams was arrested following the signing of a complaint by T. J. Moen. Williams is alleged to have defrauded the Hazel cafe, Laguna Beach.

TORONTO POWER MAGNATE BUILDS CASTLE, BUT RUNS SHORT OF FUNDS TO KEEP IT UP

walls and tiled roof, shrug and remark, "Pellatt's Folly."

"Pellatt's Folly"—it was Pellatt's dream, for years. A dream that he finally made come true—and that brought him financial disaster.

Sir Henry Pellatt, who became a broker at 15 and rose to become a wealthy power magnate, a financial giant with a finger in many a pie, longed for years for a castle of his own—a castle like the old mediaeval towers of Europe, only modernized and made more homelike.

Shortly before the war he began to build it.

No expense was spared. Sir Henry gave free rein to his fancy. Everything that he had always wanted in his house was built.

Fifty rooms the big mansion contains. There are 75 open fireplaces, 15 bathroom, a library wherein 500 people could sit at one time, three bowling alleys, a gymnasium, a 200-foot rifle range, a swimming pool, a monster conservatory with a stained glass roof, a main hallway through which an automobile could be driven.

There are three bronze floors that cost $14,000 apiece. There are bedrooms of every shape—square, circular, octagonal; there are $1500 mantel pieces, and a kitchen, as Sir Henry himself expressed it, "big enough to feed a regiment."

That remark provides a clue, incidentally. Sir Henry for years was commander of the Queen's Own Rifles, crack Canadian infantry regiment. He commanded the Canadian contingent at the coronation of King Edward and has been aide de camp to various Canadian governors-general.

There is a regimental barracks in one of the basements of the castle, a fine shooting range 200 feet long, three bowling alleys, a gymnasium and swimming pool especially for soldier guests.

The Gorgeous Stables

Perhaps the lord's fancy played more freely in the stables than even elsewhere. Over the entrance is a vaulted dome. The stables cost $200,000.

Even the water buckets are of teakwood with hoops and handles of solid brass.

The stable roof is of a rare tile which has the sneen of fine Jewels.

A writer of mystery tales could write a hundred plots from the strange secret passageways, pannelled walls, and hidden rooms that Sir Henry built. Through one 500-foot underground tunnel an auto could be driven.

Casa Loma—that's the name Sir Henry gave it—has had parties at which $300 were served in the great conservatory.

But what will become of the great mansion—a veritable Arabian Nights structure?

Who can afford to revel in its magnificence?

Not Sir Henry, he has found. His castle has cost him about all he had.

Suggestions that it be turned into a museum or an apartment hotel have been made. But none has materialized.

So the glorified house with its 800 windows shuttered against the sunlight waits vainly for a tenant—mute symbol of a great and rich man's dream of home gone away.

Movie Chatterbox

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 21.—What is an actor's idea about how pictures should be made?

Some day Monte Blue hopes to be a director. And for that reason he has studied every angle of making films. He started from the bottom with a pick and shovel on the old D. W. Griffith lot years ago. Since then he has worked at almost everything, but during the last few years has confined his activities to performing before those soulless cameras.

"Directing is the thing in this game," declared Blue. "It is the director who is the big boy. All of the actors, yes even the stars, have to do just as the director says. He is the skipper of the set. I have some ideas of my own I want to try out, too."

Musical Co-ordination
"My pet hobby lately has been trying to figure out a means for better co-ordination between pictures and music. I think every picture should be filmed with a definite musical score in mind. There are places where the music means everything, and if it isn't right it ruins the production."

"Another thing that should be done is scoring a picture for the production as well as for the showing. The same music that is played in the theater should be played at the studio. If the music had the proper effect on the players while they were acting, it should have the right reaction upon an audience."

Rehearsal
Monte also favors rehearsing a picture before the actual shooting starts, just as a play is rehearsed. That would cut down expenses and time. But then, as Monte explains, the producers don't think a picture is any good unless it costs at least a million dollars, and is held up by a lot of unnecessary delays.

Watch the screen in a few years for a film directed by Monte Blue. When his present contract expires he is very apt to discard the grease paint for a megaphone.

EUROPEAN FARMS PAY
"The common idea that European farmers live in hovels in poverty is no longer accurate," says Dr. Galpin, of the United States department of agriculture. "Conditions are bad in some cases, as they are in the United States, but there is a great number of farmers abroad whose living standards are comparable with what we have in this country."

CANADIANS ARE RAISING MONEY IN ATTEMPT TO SAVE GOODWIN

Powerful Interests Are at Work in Victoria, in Behalf of Actor-Priest

MENTON WITHDRAWS AS MAN'S COUNSEL

Lawyer Declines to Give Reason He Quit Case of Convicted Murderer

That powerful interests in Canada are working to save the Rev. Philip A. Goodwin, convicted murderer, from the gallows, was learned here today from northern dispatches, simultaneously with the announcement that Attorney William F. Menton, of Santa Ana, has withdrawn from the case as Goodwin's counsel.

Reports from Victoria, Canada, home of Goodwin's mother, stated that a $5000 defense fund is being raised there for the condemned slayer of Joseph J. Patterson. Not only have civil and military authorities of Victoria interested themselves in the case, but the dominion government, it is said, has made a direct appeal to Washington to intervene in the Santa Ana canyon murder case.

Lawyer Refuses Statement

Attorney Menton announced his withdrawal from the case today, when asked to comment on the defense movement reported from Canada. He offered no explanation of his course, and declined to make a statement regarding it.

"I don't care to say anything about it," he stated. He added that he knew nothing concerning the Canadian angle of the case. Menton was retained by Mrs. C. A. Goodwin, mother of the priest, after Goodwin had been tried and convicted of the Patterson murder and had been refused a new trial. Menton's services had been en-

BOY IS KILLED WHEN TRUCK TRAILER CRASHES INTO CAR ON LOS ALAMITOS HIGHWAY

James Dudley, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Dudley, Loma avenue, Huntington Beach, was killed and two other children were slightly injured, when the light touring car, occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Dudley and three children, was struck by a truck, late last night, near Los Alamitos. The truck is said to have failed to stop after the accident. A search is being conducted today for the driver. Mr. and Mrs. Dudley were not injured.

2000 CASES OF RUM CAPTURED BY NIGHT OWLS

Sheriff's Officers, Under Dan Adams, Kept Busy in Stopping Flow of Liquor

Sheriff Sam Jernigan's "night owls," consisting of several deputy sheriffs under D. D. Adams, have, since November 23, captured 10 rum runners and the equivalent of 2000 cases of liquor, valued at approximately $60,000.

All the liquor and prisoners have been taken after close guarding of roads and a sharp lookout along the beaches. Although there have been no casualties among those who are enforcing the dry law, many shots have been exchanged and, in some cases, those of the latter class have found it necessary to dive into the ocean to escape capture.

Of the 10 men captured, six have been indicted by the federal grand jury in Los Angeles and now are free on bail of $10,000 each; three paid fines of $500 each in justice court here for possession of intoxicating liquor, and the tenth is in the Orange county jail, serving a sentence of 600 days, imposed when he could not pay a fine of $500.

The largest capture, from a valuation standpoint, was that made last week between Sunset Beach and Huntington Beach, when 123 cases were found on one truck. The liquor, quoted at $100 a case in Los Angeles, was worth $12,230. The largest amount of liquor captured at one time by the "night owls" was taken on the highway, near El Toro, a month ago, when 150 five-gallon cans of alcohol were confiscated.

The alcohol was being taken to Los Angeles, for Christmas gin, and would have made 1500 cases of liquor. It was tested at the Orange County hospital and found to be of unusually high grade.

ANAHEIM GETS NEW MANUFACTURE FIRM

A new manufacturing concern for northern Orange county is the Perfecto Spray company, which has established a plant in Anaheim, moving to that city from Los Angeles, where it formerly was located.

A large increase in the sale of Perfecto spray for citrus groves during the present year in this county is given as the reason for the change of location by W. J. Melville, president and manager of the company.

The manufacturing plant is located in the buildings of the Anaheim Investment company, at the corner of Ball road and Walnut street, about a mile southwest of Anaheim. Here modern machinery has been installed and the plant now is making the spray to take care of the present market.

Melville was for a number of years horticultural commissioner of San Bernardino county and also served in the capacity of state quarantine officer. He is an expert on citrus culture and claims to have developed a spray that has been proven by citrus growers to be highly satisfactory in the control of pests.

Thomas McGreary, also of Los Angeles, will be in charge of sales for the company.

BOARD DISCUSSES WATER MEASURE

The enabling act proposed to permit Orange county to organize itself into a flood control district, for purposes of water conservation and development, was the subject of a conference, yesterday, between the county supervisors, Dr. C. D. Ball, assemblyman from this district, and L. A. West, special counsel employed by the supervisors to draft the legislation.

Various sections of the measure which Dr. Ball expects to introduce at the coming session of the state legislature were discussed at the conference.

Attorney West will have the completed draft ready for delivery to Dr. Ball next week, it was stated.

COUNCIL GIVES TEACHER TRADE PLAN APPROVAL

Included among legislative recommendations now under consideration by the California Council of Education are certain proposed amendments to the school law which would grant sabbatical leave to teachers who have fulfilled certain conditions and authorize the exchange of teachers between different school districts, including those of other states, for stated periods, according to J. A. Cranston, city superintendent of the Santa Ana city schools. Superintendent Cranston, who is a member of the council, attended the semi-annual meeting of the council, held last Saturday in Los Angeles.

Following is the text of a proposed amendment, made part of a committee report read at the meeting:

"For the purpose of increasing the efficiency of the teachers in the public schools of the state of California, as well as the efficiency of principals and others acting in a supervisory capacity in said schools, and for the purpose of improving the public school system in the state of California, boards of school trustees and city and county boards of education shall have the power to grant to any teacher, principal, supervisor or administrator, who has been employed or served in the public schools of the district or in the public school of any county or city and county in which said district is situated, for a period of at least seven years, one year's leave of absence from his or her duty in said schools, upon such conditions and prerequisites as may be determined by said boards of school trustees, or city or county and county boards of education.

Half Pay Granted

"That said boards of school trustees of said city, or city and county boards of education, granting said leave of absence, shall allow, and order paid to said person to whom said leave of absence is granted for the period of said leave of absence one half of the regular salary, or pay which said person was entitled to receive at the time said leave of absence may be granted."

Emphasis is laid on the fact, however, in the last section of the proposed amendment, that such leave of absence shall be granted only for the purpose of permitting teacher, principal, supervisor or administrator to pursue a further course of study, or to travel, to the end that he or she may be better fitted for his or her position in the public school system.

Authority to establish a system of exchanges of teachers between schools of various districts, including those of other states, is contained in the following proposed amendment to the school law:

"Provided, that when any board of school trustees, city, or county board of education, shall deem it for the best interests, and for the benefit of the public schools under their respective jurisdictions, or for the improvement of the teaching qualifications of any teacher, principal, supervisor or administrator in said schools, said board of school trustees, city, or county board of education, may grant a leave of absence to, or may permit any teacher, principal, supervisor or administrator to exchange his or her place in said school with a teacher, principal, supervisor or administrator from the schools of any other state, who may have all of the educational

Special Caps for Bottles of Grade A Milk Provided

Caps to the number of 100,000, to be used soon on bottles of milk distributed by the Excelsior Creamery company of this city, will be a reminder to the recipients of each bottle that the company was awarded a prize for high scoring grade A milk, pasteurized, exhibited at the Pacific Slope Dairy show, held recently in Oakland.

The prize was 100,000 Sealright standard round bottle caps, offered by the George W. Prising company, San Francisco.

The company has written the creamery company a letter congratulating it on its success in the competition and advising that the caps will be made available as soon as the distributor here advises the type of printing desired on the caps.

YULE SERVICES TO BE HELD BY FIVE CHURCHES

On Christmas morning, the anniversary of the day when mankind received its greatest gift, congregations of five Santa Ana churches will gather in their respective places of worship to hold services of rejoicing.

The churches to thus observe the nativity of Christ are the Church of the Messiah, Protestant Episcopal, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, St. Ann's Roman Catholic church, Trinity Lutheran church and St. Peter's Lutheran church.

Services in the Church of the Messiah will include one at 11:45 Friday night and another at 9 o'clock Saturday morning. Both will be prayer and communion services.

St. Joseph's church will hold three Christmas masses. One will be held at midnight Friday and the others will be held at 8 and 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Similar Christmas ceremonies will be held in St. Ann's church.

Children especially will be remembered by the Trinity Lutheran church, when a special service will be held in their honor at 8:45 Friday night. On Christmas morning there will be a service in German at 9:30 and one in English at 10:35.

St. Peter's Lutheran church will hold only one service. It will be at 9 o'clock Saturday morning.

Although the Richmond Avenue Methodist Episcopal church is to have no special Christmas observance, young people of that church will spread the Christmas message through the singing of carols Friday night.

Thieves Escape With 58 Rabbits

Rabbit thieves stole 58 blooded animals from the hutches of Robert Gerstenkorn, 928 South Birch street, last night, according to a report filed with police.

The rabbits reported stolen were one Chinchilla doe and 10 young; one gray doe and seven young; seven New Zealand Reds, all young; 12 Chinchilla young; 14 spotted red and white rabbits; one New Zealand buck; four Chinchilla does and a Chinchilla buck.

Officer Sid Smithwick, assistant city marshal, is making an investigation.

YULE MEANING IS INTERPRETED FOR ROTARIANS

A new interpretation of the meaning of Christmas—a new construction on the significance of the festival that is so intimately associated with all the best hopes and aspirations of humanity furnished the keynote of an address delivered yesterday by the Rev. William E. Roberts, until recently of this city, before the Santa Ana Rotary club, at St. Ann's Inn.

Until his recent transfer to Los Angeles, Dr. Roberts was the pastor of the First Presbyterian church in Santa Ana. He also was a member of the Rotary club here.

Fred Rowland, president of the club, presided over the meeting, which registered an unusually large attendance, including many visiting Rotarians from Los Angeles, Glendale, Pasadena and other points. William S. Suddaby was in charge of the program.

"Secret of Christmas"

"The Secret of Christmas" was the subject of Dr. Roberts' address. In introducing the subject, the speaker called attention to the fact that genius is rare. Genius, he remarked, is that indescribable something that unlocks the secret of things. Artists of every sort have it. In this connection, he referred to the ill-fated George Sterling, the poet, who, in four lines, visualized the streets of San Francisco, portraying a picture that it would have taken others volumes to tell.

Others to express the divine gift of genius, the ability to unlock the secrets of nature, were painters like Millet, with his masterpiece, "The Angelus," and Turner, with his incomparable color compositions, the speaker said.

Pointing to the analogy that exists between the world's great artists and the spiritual significance of the happening which

Santiago Association in Most Successful Year, General Manager Says

LAST TWO POOLS BRING RECORD SUM

Members Happy As Santa Claus Makes Early Call With Orange Checks

More than half a million dollars was today being poured into the laps of members of the Santiago Orange Growers' association, at Orange.

Checks aggregating $663,811 were mailed today and will reach the members in time to swell their bank accounts and make the money available for the purchase of Christmas presents and for meeting obligations contracted in anticipation of receipt of the Yuletide distribution.

Largest Association

The association is the largest organization of orange growers in California, which means in the world, and it is one of the most successful of the citrus marketing organizations, according to R. E. Gross, who has been manager of the association for a number of years.

Forwarding of the checks marked the official closing of the season for the association, and as a result of its operations for the season $2,260,342 of outside money has been brought into and distributed in the Orange district. The grand total was returned on 552,328 packed boxes. On the basis of 400 boxes to the car, the shipments totaled 1300 cars.

The big distribution represents the returns received on the last two pools, shipped between September 21 and November 4. The fifth pool contained 267 cars of fruit and returned to the growers $547,379.54. The sixth pool contained 51 cars, for which the growers received $118,431.46. Yule's figured in the crop to the extent of 70 cars.

350 Members Participate

There are 350 members and slightly more than 3000 acres represented in the association. According to Gross, other packing houses with smaller capacity operated this season considerably less than to full capacity.

Concerning the prospects for next season, Gross stated that as far as his house was concerned, no greater year could be experienced than the season just closed, because the association has its full quota of members and is caring for all the acreage it can handle.

"Returns for the season have been eminently satisfactory, and we are now turning our attention to preparations for handling the coming crop, packing and gathering of which will start early in May," Gross said.

"Christmas started the world clock anew. It was an event plus an advent. No one would think of changing the clock again. But when Christmas came, many missed it. Two thousand years ago it came to the earth and it keeps coming every year, yet many keep missing it.

"Some found it the first time, like the wise men and the humble shepherds. The very extremes of humanity—the wise men, with their costly offerings of gold and precious oils, and the poor workers of the field, found it at the same spot; they found the Child.

Must Go to Childhood

"You know, you have to go to childhood for many secrets. Maybe some of you have found the secrets of your own life again in the child of your heart. The thing that never quite unfolded for you in your self unfolded for you in the expressions of your children. The music that itched in your fingers finds expression in one of them: the power of expressing self with lips or pen, denied to you, in another of them. What we hoped and yearned and dreamed to know in ourselves, we know in the child.

"Now, the Heavenly Father knew all that, so what did He do but to give to the race a Child, so that He might unfold for us the secret of life. The event was predicted centuries before its coming by the prophets. Yet, a lot of men go through life and die without having discovered what it was about, without unlocking the secret of its spiritual significance. Nobody dies with life undiscovered who finds the Child."

In closing, the churchman declared that God, in His graciousness, has given to all of us the genius to uncover that one great secret of secrets. With the realization of this knowledge, there is a belief that in the future people will be better and happier and that an increasing number will understand the real meaning of Christmas to humanity.

The musical program was in charge of Robert L. Brown, who entertained the audience with several selections. He was accompanied by Clarence A. Gustlin.

Our Neighbors

SAN DIEGO.—Another splendid year is reported by Jack T. Millan, city treasurer and tax collector, as regards interest earnings in his department. Again this year these earnings have greatly exceeded the city council's estimate. The total expenditures for operating the treasurer, tax collector, street bond and license departments, over which Millan has supervision, for this year were $37,935. The treasurer's total interest earned for the same period amounted to $60,651.56. The council's estimate of the treasurer's interest earnings for 1926 was $40,500, making Millan's earnings over the council's estimate $20,151.54. This amount will pay the treasurer's salary of $4500 annually for the next four and a half years. The treasurer has $2,990.192.13 on deposit with local banks, every dollar of which is daily earning interest. As protection for the taxpayers' fund the treasurer has required, and has in his custody from banks, $3,010,500 in municipal, state and federal bonds, which he is holding as collateral for city deposits in the local banks.

RIVERSIDE.—Erection of a citrus packing house in the Coachella valley will be an event of the near future, according to plans of citrus growers of the valley. With the building of the packing house, Coachella growers will market their fruit under a Coachella valley brand. During the meeting the fact that used packing boxes are being brought to the valley from outside points developed, and the growers at the meeting requested the horticultural commissioner, A. E. Bittel, to enforce the law in regard to infected boxes. This law requires that all boxes going into a clean area be held for inspection before being released through the orchards, and should be fumigated before going into a clean district.

INGLEWOOD.—Plans have been agreed upon for the widening and paving of six blocks of South Market street, one of Inglewood's main business arteries, from Kelo to Arbor Vitae streets, thus making the thoroughfare of uniform width throughout the business district. This improvement also includes the installation of combined electric light and trolley poles, the same as approved by the city planning commission for other portions of the street.

SAN PEDRO.—San Pedro is to have more than 12,000,000 feet of telephone wire in cables installed in the west section of its telephone exchange, the cost of which is estimated at $28,890. Work on the placing of telephone poles and hollow tile conduit has started and will soon be ready for the installation of the cable.

SPEED ON THE FARM

Five hours from wheat to bliscuit is the record of the first combined harvester-thresher test in Ohio. Twenty-five acres of grain can be cut and threshed by three men with this new combine.

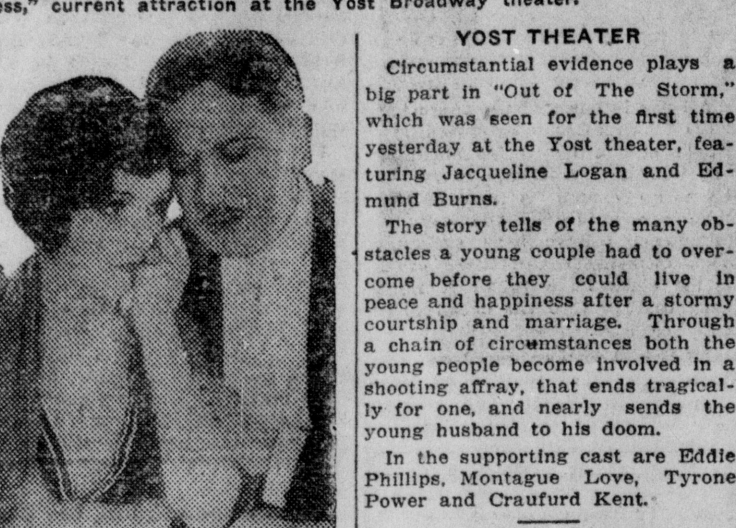

COST OF BEEF

It costs about $60 to produce a two-year-old beef animal ready for market in the Blue mountain districts of eastern Oregon, according to the Oregon state college experiment service.

WALKER THEATER

"Early to Wed," newest matrimonial comedy drama, said by some to be better than "The First Year," comes to the Walker Theater tonight.

It is a matrimonial drama worked out along new and original lines in which the old money problem is given with a different twist. Tommy Carter and his little wife, Daphne, are typical young married folk starting out on a very medium-sized income and bank account. Tommy is ambitious, so is Daphne. He wants her to have all the nice things of life, she wants him to be classed as a prominent business man.

Their troubles begin by Tommy losing his job and when the furniture is taken away because of non-payment on the principal. The situations growing out of these circumstances are filled with humor as well as having a pathetic little note.

Way Watts and his band will supply the music and additional entertainment.

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. How can I tell when Cherimoyas are ready to pick? Do they become soft on the tree or are they ripened after picking? At what age should Cherimoyas begin to bear?

A. J. E. Cherimoyas are picked when they are fully mature as to size and color and laid away to become soft. No rule of thumb can be laid down as to when fruits are fully mature, however. The season begins now and continues through the winter. The size of individual Cherimoyas ranges from a half a pound up to two or three pounds. Most seedlings bear inferior small fruits of a fairly even size, but budded trees of proven merit bear large sized fruits of splendid quality.

Usually by watching you can tell when the fruit has reached full size. As it begins to mature the green color may gradually assume a yellowish or brownish tinge. After it has been picked for a few days you can determine the stage of ripeness as you would that of a pear or peach by pressing carefully with the fingers. When the fruit is as soft as either of the above mentioned become when they are in condition to eat, it is also ready. Cherimoyas given good care should begin to bear the fourth or fifth year after planting.

Q. Tell me when to plant, and if in open ground, Gillies Poinciana (Bird of Paradise) shrub tree, Variegated Euphorbia (Snow on the Mountain) and Passion Flower seeds.—Mrs. E. I. W.

A. According to Bailey, the plant you refer to as Gillies Poinciana is really Caesalpinia Gillies, closely related, however, to the genus Poinciana. The seeds of this plant should really be sowed in a seed bed, using a sand soil. After the plants come up and show the first true leaf they may be potted off into small pots of ordinary garden soil into which a little sand has been placed. The plants will grow rapidly and must be transplanted to larger pots or in their permanent position after they reach a fair size. If the seed bed can be kept warm and is in a protected place the seeds can be sowed early in the spring. Otherwise it is best to wait until late spring.

Variegated Euphorbia is now called Euphorbia Marginata. It is related to the Poinsettia and can be propagated by cuttings, as is the latter or by seeds. Early summer is the best time for taking and rooting the cutting or for planting the seeds. This can be done in pots or in the open ground. Seeds of passiflora sps. may be propagated by cuttings or seeds. Late spring or summer plantings will be satisfactory if in the open gaged for the purpose of conducting an appeal to the state supreme court.

In Victoria, the dispatches show, the "unofficial" defense movement has gained marked headway. Clergymen, military leaders, Canadian Legion officials and others, including Mayor Pendry, of Victoria, have interested themselves in the case and comprise a committee in charge of the $5000 defense fund. The sum of $1000 already has been contributed toward the fund, it was announced, following an appeal for aid, issued over the radio by the Rev. Clem Davies, of Victoria.

Mayor Has "Evidence"

According to northern dispatches, Mayor Pendry, appealing to the Victoria city council for aid in the Goodwin case, stated that he had received evidence, "not accepted by the court at Santa Ana," which convinced him that the Rev. Mr. Goodwin is innocent of the Patterson murder and would "win his case if an appeal is obtained."

Local authorities today stated that the evidence referred to probably consisted of the "Mackelbride" letter, received after the Goodwin trial, in which the writer, claiming to be a friend of Albert Dewey Gaines, co-defendant of Goodwin, said that Patterson had been accidentally killed by an automobile driven by Gaines, near Camp Kearney, and had not been murdered by Goodwin in Santa Ana canyon, as charged here. Goodwin was not present at Patterson's death, the letter declared.

Affidavits From Show Folk

Goodwin also presented affidavits from Mr. and Mrs. Edward de Groot, vaudeville actors, stating that he was with them in a dressing room of a San Diego theater at the time Mackelbride stated that Patterson was killed.

The Mackelbride letter has never been before the court here. Officials privately scout its authenticity, and Gaines, with whom a writer claimed friendship, declared that there is no such person. He charges that his co-defendant, Goodwin, was himself responsible for the letter.

The de Groot affidavits, cited to the court in an effort to prove an alibi for Goodwin when a new trial was being sought, were rejected by the court, Judge E. J. Marks stating that they failed to coincide with Goodwin's own testimony of his trial.

Fight for Priest Loans

In any event, it appeared today that a vigorous fight will be made on behalf of the priest. The legislative committee of the Victoria council, in response to the mayor's plea, started an investigation to see what could be done in the case. The defense fund is in charge of J. C. Perry, Lake, T. G. Coventry and H. W. Hart, secretary, representing the Canadian Legion; A. C. Pike of the Native Sons of Canada, and E. G. Melander. The British consul general also is said to be investigating the case.

TOMATO LEAF SPOT

The tomato leaf spot known as late blight destroys 100,000 to 300,000 bushels of tomatoes each season in New Jersey alone.

HARBOR BONDS AND WATER CONSERVATION

Orange, R. D. 2, Dec. 17, 1926.
Editor Register—We have just finished another lesson at a cost of $4000 or $5000, and found out something that could have been determined at one-tenth of the money cost, to say nothing of effort wasted and the county being I am afraid, farther apart than ever on this particular issue. Two hundred dollars' worth of postal cards sent to 2000 names taken from the various precinct registers would have been sufficient to determine that the people who had more time for work than they had for boat rides would again defeat anything in the shape of a pleasure proposition.

Folks, we had so much money burning our pockets just a few short years ago that it is mighty hard to put on the brakes when that very convenient commodity gets a little bit scarce. I know one farmer that has $100,000 worth of property right here among us, to say nothing of large eastern holdings, and this man will tell you as frankly as he told me that he just could not afford to hire help during the walnut picking—no crop to pick, but a tax bill that would choke a cow.

Let us get our heads out of the sky once more and buckle down to face one real fact. When the farmer has plenty of coin jangling around his pockets everyone gets some of it, from the pick and shovel man on up to the man that peddles those grand six and eight barrel touring cars. Plenty of men sitting behind the wheel of one of these parlor on wheels are wondering where the heck they are going to make the raise to meet the payment on the car and also keep up the interest on the home. If you doubt this go to the recorder's office and check against some of them. It won't take you long to make up your mind that we had better pick out the public improvement that we need most and report to John Knox for a job helping boost. And don't just stall and then be a quitter, but keep on until we have those dams and the reservoir all full of water. If the bonds are all voted at once, an issue large enough to cover the cost of dams in all our major streams, as fast as we get one built take the crew on to the next, we would not only keep all of the available men busy, but by the time the first dam was fairly well started we would have an organized force that would cut down the overhead on all of the future work.

I was hoping that the harbor boys would get their project over this time, and publicly announced the fact. I will admit that there was a sting tied to the announcement, but think I was justified in tying it on.

I want to take off my hat to John Knox, not only for being a good sport, but for quick action. John, don't you think that it would be a good idea to send Tom Talbert a new pair of bright clear glasses, for everything seems to look so blue to him, so far as any immediate water plan is concerned.

Another job will be to take a straw vote of the harbor district, and if they do not want to help us I don't think they should be burdened. It is without a doubt time to make separate districts in the county—one for harbor and one for water. I'm sure that it would be foolish to jeopardize the water situation with the several thousand harbor proponents when we know that they are not as vitally interested as the balance of the county in water. Sockless Jerry Simpons' logic as quoted by John Knox was well put, but I don't think that because they can't "lick" us that they should be compelled to "jine" us against their own will.

Use your mailing list, Mr. Knox, and see what the boys and girls (?) down around the harbor district think about this. I'm sure I would like to see them with us under one flag, and will say again, as I have many times before, that when we get our reservoir full of water—an essential of the most vital importance, bar none—then I say will be the time to put over the next necessity.

The county as a whole was as much grieved as anyone around the bay over the loss of life in the years past. What about hundreds of people living along the low lands when the Santa Ana river gets on a tear this winter? Dozens of these people are Japs and Mexicans that do not realize that they are in danger, and won't be warned until their shacks go floating down the rushing torrent. If it was not for being accused of trying to depreciate the property values, I would like to quote a few things that thousands of us who were here in 1884 and on up to 1916, observed along the river and inside the city limits of Santa Ana. I will only say this: Today where stand dozens of new homes, in 1916, there "rushed" four to five feet of water. Ask Vic Walker of Santa Ana if it is a fact that he could have rowed a boat from Newport bay on up the Santa Ana river till he reached a point near Fairview and then cross over east to the head of the bay again. I was up high enough to look over that locality that season and I must say the boating looked excellent. I know that one of my friends was washed off the pavement on West Fifth street and was found three weeks after nearly buried in silt. Another man that I did not know was drowned during the same storm.

Friends, let us do like John Knox, who, before the smoke of battle was out of his eyes—a battle in which he was on the losing side—said, "Come on, boys, if we can't lick 'em we'll join 'em." That is the spirit that builds nations, and by the same token, it builds dams and water mains. John, you get in the front ranks with Col. Finley and Willard Smith and help them handle the "T's" and I will sure do some "mopping" up with my pop gun. Every time some mudhen squawks "it can't be done," I'll sure take a shot at it.

I was glad to note in this evening's Register that we have another man in the community that is not afraid to come out and state a few facts. Congratulations, Mr. Varnum. I wish you would look for that Mr. Dwyer over there at Anaheim. He said it would cost too much to control the river. I suppose if the roof was blown off his house it would be too expensive to replace it. Tell him to go out to the sugar factory, just out of Anaheim, and spend two or three hours looking at the old river channel. In 1916 I drove for one-half mile along the highway between Garden Grove and Anaheim and you could not see the pavement for river water. I think if he will make even a casual investigation he will decide that it will "cost too much" not to control that notorious stream.

As a matter of fact, there is hardly anyone among us that does not spend more for joyriding each year than would be his share of taxes on a bond issue that would conserve all of the water from Christianitas to Coyote creek and from Seal Beach to Saddle Back. No foolin'.

The next high powered salesman that tries to trade you a Packard for your old puddle-jumper, and goes on to tell you how much more satisfaction you will get in the exchange, just say "So's your old Tiajuana," and shut the garage door in his face.

"The most crying needs of our country are not only a good five-cent cigar," as the senator from Georgia declared, but a good five inches of cloth sewed onto the bottom of the dresses of the more virtuous of our race, and about five times as many overalls as balloon pants, and last, but not least, five times as many boosters for public welfare as there are rooters at the different games of pleasure proposals. If the first mentioned was put into effect the silk manufacturer would have to use the public press for his ads instead of displaying them on the —er running gears of our fair ones, and I believe this new eye disease, irachoma, would automatically disappear, and the farmer on coming to town would not get so many "cricks" in his neck. Why, bless you, right now I am trying to make my wife believe that I acquired the latter while pruning walnut trees, when, as a matter of fact, I was "exposed" to it on Fourth and Main.

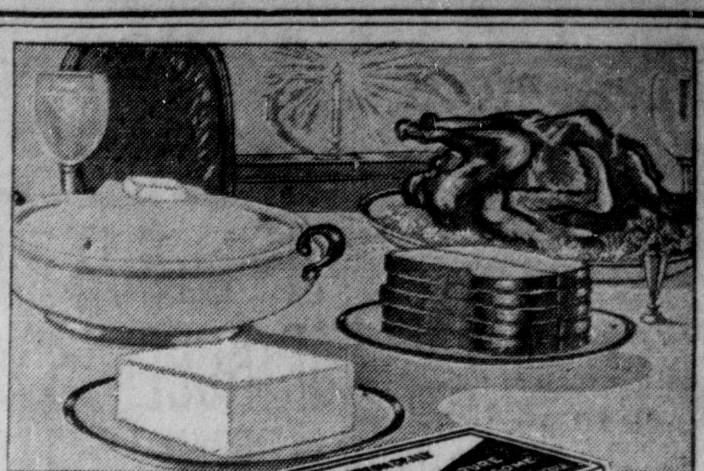

In regard to the balloon pants and the rooters, I am going to let you draw your own conclusions. Enrich the silk importers and impoverish the American cotton farmer—that's the way to make good times—yeah!

I thank you.

THE LONG-LIFE BATTERY FOR YOUR CAR

When you buy a battery— consider these three important points

- 1. Product. The safest way to buy a battery is to get one of recognized merit. Exide Batteries are built by the world's largest manufacturers of storage batteries for every purpose. This leadership would not be maintained year after year unless Exide Batteries fulfilled their traditional reputation of exceptionally long life and freedom from repairs. Exide's position in the battery field is a guarantee that the Exide you buy contains every improvement that the highest engineering skill endorses.
- 2. Service. When your battery requires attention you want prompt service by someone who thoroughly understands the battery you have bought. Exide dealers are located everywhere—more than 8000 in the United States. The Exide man is a good business man or he would not handle the Exide Battery. Being a good business man, he is alive to the value of your good will. Hence you can count on courteous and efficient service.
- 3. Price. Is a good battery expensive? An Exide is priced exceptionally low. In fact, you pay no more for the Exide than you do for batteries with less claim to distinction. In an Exide you get peak value at a surprisingly low price.

RADIO... There is an Exide Radio Battery of the right size for every set and a type for every tube. See the new Exide Power Unit, consisting of an "A" Battery and special charger, that keeps itself charged from your house current.

A Practical Way to Say Merry Christmas

Overstuffed Furniture

What could win more immediate praise, or give longer joy and satisfaction, than a beautiful piece of overstuffed furniture in your home on Christmas morning?

Nothing, absolutely nothing, that you might select will find such favor with the entire family—because it is a gift to the entire family.

At Chandler's you have the advantage of the largest selection possible. Complete suites, high back chairs, Coxwell chairs, occasional chairs. And no matter whether you choose the most pretentious piece in the store or the one most moderately priced, rest assured that there is no question as to quality—inside or out. Let us show you real home gifts these last two days before Christmas.

Karpen Overstuffed Furniture is conceded to be one of America's foremost lines. It is another name that stands as a compliment to the Chandler store. Look for the Karpen imprint.

Cottonseed Meal

For a few days yet we will still take orders on cottonseed meal at $33.80 per ton f. o. b. the car to arrive in early January.

This is an unusual opportunity for you to secure some of this wonderfully efficient fertilizer at an extremely low price. Buyers are taking cottonseed meal now, at the above price, and storing it with the idea of putting it on their groves in February and March. The Riverside Citrus Station experiments showed the best money results from the use of cottonseed meal than with any other fertilizer used. Buy it now. Price subject to withdrawal without notice—$33.80 per ton at the car—you haul it. If you prefer, we will arrange to deliver it for you.

CONSOLIDATION OF BUREAUS IS JARDINE'S AIM

Chemical, Soil, Fertilizer Work Would Be Put Under Central Head

Secretary Jardine has announced that he has recommended consolidation in one unit, to be known as the bureau of chemistry and soils, of the research work in the United States department of agriculture on soils and fertilizers and certain of the chemical work on agricultural products at present conducted by the bureau of chemistry, soils and plant industry, and the placing of the regulatory work involved in the enforcement of the federal food and drugs act, and tea inspection act, the insecticide and fungicide act and the naval stores act in another single administrative unit, to be known as the food, drug and insecticide administration.

The reorganization recommended by the secretary is included in the budget for the fiscal year 1928, which is just being presented to congress. The proper reorganization, the secretary explained, is primarily for the purpose of separating work involving scientific research from the work of law enforcement and bringing together under one directing head the closely related research and other work of the department on soil science, fertilizers, etc., and in the general field of agricultural chemistry which is now scattered in three separate bureaus. The secretary states that it is highly desirable that the research work and the regulatory work be handled by separate administrative units because the growing pressure under which it is necessary to work in handling law enforcement is such as to interfere seriously with the attention that can be given to research work. Law enforcement must be handled promptly as cases arise and when both this work and scientific research are conducted by the same organization the natural tendency is to put aside the research project which is not of immediate urgent appeal but which is of far-reaching importance considering the long time future in American agriculture.

Frozen Citrus Test Sought By U. S. Bureau

The United States government will pin a medal on the man that discovers a new method of determining whether an orange has been frozen or not.

Frozen oranges are a constant worry to government inspectors and it is regarded as highly important both for the producer and the consumer that frozen fruit be eliminated before shipments are sent to market.

Besides being unappetizing, frozen oranges are regarded as unhealthful because of the chemical change that takes place during winter shipments to the east. Great care must be taken to prevent freezing and careful inspection must be made at the terminal point.

Inspections are made by cutting the oranges in half, selecting a few from various parts of the car. If the percentage of frozen oranges runs above a certain point, the entire car is condemned. Frozen oranges can be used in the manufacture of orange by-products but the shipper gets a very little price for oranges intended for these factories.

FRUIT EXPORTS IN HUGE JUMP AS TRADE GAINS

F. O. B. Returns at Los Angeles Show $500,000 Over Best Former Year

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 22.—New records were established by the California Fruit Growers' exchange at Los Angeles, the department of agriculture reports, during the business year ending Oct. 31, 1926. Total shipments exceeded those for the 1923-24 season by about 2000 carloads.

Returns, f. o. b. California, amounted to $70,744,727, including the inventory value of the fruit on hand at the close of the year. The above figure represents a gain in dollars of more than a half million over the next highest year. Shipments by the exchange for the year were 73.2 per cent of the total citrus fruit shipments from California.

Orange and grapefruit shipments amounted to 14,435,011 boxes, and lemon shipments to 4,819,724 boxes. Gains were made in the last year in the shipments to China, Japan and the Hawaiian and Philippine Islands. Exports to Australia and New Zealand were resumed following a withdrawal of the embargo against California fruits.

New Bulletin On Window Curtains Free for Asking

"What kind of curtains shall I choose for my windows?"

The United States department of agriculture has gone a long way toward answering this oft-repeated query of the homemaker in a new bulletin—Farmers' Bulletin 1516-F, entitled "Principles of Window Curtaining," by Mary Allen Davis of the bureau of home economics. Selecting window curtains is always something of an artistic venture. Lines, proportion, balance, color—all the points of design that enter into any "work of art" are involved in window curtains. This bulletin explains these are principles and applies them in such a way that the homemaker need no longer rely on inspiration alone to obtain attractive curtains.

Decoration is not the only purpose of curtains, however. They are needed for privacy, to shut out glare and to diffuse the light as it streams through the windows. Yet curtains should not interfere with good ventilation. These utility points are discussed as they bear on selections of drapery fabrics and the kinds of curtains for the various types of windows in the different rooms in the house. How glass curtains, draw curtains, side curtains, valances and shades should be used, and how they are made and hung are described and illustrated in pictures of curtains in different rooms and in working drawings.

The bulletin is, in sort, a handbook for the homemaker who wishes to select and make artistic, practicable curtains for her home. Copies of the bulletin—Farm Bulletin 1516-F—will be sent free as long as the supply lasts. Address a request to the office of publications, department of agriculture, Washington, D. C.

HIGH SCHOOL WINS RIBBON FOR PEARS GROWN ON CAMPUS

MISS VIRGINIA OSWILL HOLDING A PRIZE PEAR

DANVILLE, Calif., Dec. 22.—Students of the Ramon Valley union high school here are rejoicing over their award for growing one of the finest types of pears in California.

The pear is the Easter Beurre, grown on the high school campus, and selected for a blue ribbon award at the Sacramento state fair.

The school is making so much of this award that it has requested the state fair board to give the school its trophies and has put aside a dozen of the largest fruit from the pear trees for future preservation.

The guardian of these trophies and models, at least for this year, is Miss Virginia Oswill, elected "pear queen" of the school.

VALUE OF LETTUCE TAUGHT BY STATE

California is writing a new paragraph in the American book of etiquette, according to J. T. Saunders, freight traffic manager for Southern Pacific company, who says that lettuce knives must soon be added to the list of table cutlery required by the perfect hostess. "For ages past," Saunders explained, "authorities on etiquette have insisted that lettuce at table must be cut, speared and conveyed to the mouth entirely with the salad fork. Just try this on a sector of crisp and tender giant California head lettuce, and you will quickly discover it is not so simple as it sounds. Hence the need for a lettuce knife."

"From 9744 carloads in 1922, shipments of California lettuce to eastern markets this year will reach the amazing total of 27,000 carloads, a gain of almost 200 per cent in four years. In 1920 shipments on our coast division shipped only 62 carloads of the salad delicacy. This year, from the same territory, approximately 12,800 carloads will be shipped. "Equally startling has been the growth of Imperial Valley lettuce shipments. From 1970 carloads in the 1918-19 season, the Valley will, during the coming season, send eastward more than 16,700 carloads of lettuce. The famous California 'Iceberg' head lettuce developed and perfected by Imperial Valley growers, has created thousands of new lettuce lovers throughout the land."

"There is no finer lettuce grown anywhere than in California and to this bears witness the fact that all the nation now eats lettuce."

PROBLEMS OF THE SOIL

Q. Should peach trees be sprayed now for leaf curl and what? Ought my trees to be pruned now?—W. J. B.

A. It is too early to spray for leaf curl. If there is any reason to suspect peach blight the work should be done as quickly as possible now as the blight fungus works rapidly at this time of year. For curl leaf wait until the buds are well swollen in the spring or even until they have broken to show pink, and then put on lime-sulphur solution diluted at the rate of 1 to 10. If the buds break open to any extent before you spray, then dilute a little more, or at the rate of 1 to 12 or 15. The tender foliage will burn if lime-sulphur is applied at full strength after it is well out. Peach trees can be pruned at any time after they are thoroughly dormant. As there has been very little cold weather as yet, it is perhaps just a little early to prune. Better wait until January or February.

Q. Tell me the proper method of treating poinsettia flowers after cutting. I have tried burning the stems until charred, over a gas flame, dipping in boiling water and dipping in paraffine. Still the flowers would be completely withered after a few hours. Also, does one put them in a vase with or without water?—L. G. S.

A. The generally practiced method of preserving poinsettia blossoms is to char the tips over a gas flame. The only explanation the writer can offer of your failure in

RULES FOR FARMING LISTED BY COLLEGE

RALEIGH, N. C., Dec. 22.—The North Carolina State Agricultural college, after making a study of the business of farming, has found that eight chief points are pertinent to the industry.

The study was made chiefly for southern farmers who raise a cotton crop, but the points are universal enough to apply to all types of agriculture.

The rules for farming as listed by the college are:

1. Each farmer should grow sufficient grain and roughage to supply the needs of his work-stock.
2. Grow an all-year-round garden for the purpose of supplying the needs of his family with the necessary vegetables, and in most instances have a surplus to market.
3. Keep at least 50 laying hens to supply the needs of his own family and have a surplus of both poultry and eggs for sale.
4. Keep at least one family cow to supply the family with milk and butter, and wherever sufficient feeds are available, additional cows to produce milk and butter to be sold on the market.
5. Produce sufficient pork for the family's needs. If surplus corn is available, increase the supply of hogs so as to be able to sell on the local market or to take part in co-operative carlot shipments to the larger markets, thus increasing the family income.
6. Plant cotton only on the best cotton lands, and restrict the acreage to those lands that will produce at least half a bale during a normal season.
7. Have at least two so-called money crops.
8. Begin a definite rotation of crops, which should include a legume crop grown on at least one-fourth of the cultivated acreage each year so as to improve the fertility of the soil and ultimately be able to reduce the cost of production.

DAIRYING NOT KEEPING PACE EXPERT CLAIMS

Few Farmers Anxious to Take Up Business, Says State Department Chief

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 22.—For 7000 years man has milked the cow and, although in that time he has learned to plow by machinery and carry his produce to market in an automobile truck, he still, generally speaking, milks the cow in the same old way.

Thus does Dr. J. J. Frey, chief of the division of dairy control of the state department of agriculture, explain why California's dairy industry is not keeping pace with its population, and why, in the face of premium prices for California dairy products, few farmers seem eager to go into the dairy business.

"Milking a cow by hand is work; there is little poetry in it," said the dairy chief today. "One looks about and sees the drudgery taken out of almost all forms of industry through use of labor-saving machinery; yet most of our milk crop is harvested in the same old way that was in vogue when a crooked stick was the best plow obtainable."

"California today is importing from other states or foreign countries more than one-fourth of its butter and three-fourths of its cheese. Such dairy products as originate within the state bring premium prices, yet there is no eager rush to get into the dairy business, nor will there be until the milking machine and other labor-saving devices really have revolutionized dairy practice."

"It is true that the milking machine has been developed to a high degree of perfection, but in spite of this, hand-milking prevails in the great majority of even our large dairies."

Sisters Develop Hilly Farm Into Chestnut Center

ALTON, Ill., Dec. 22.—An Illinois farm, so hilly that planting of ordinary crops is useless, bids fair to become an important chestnut production center of the United States.

The grove of 2000 nut trees is operated by three sisters—Miss Amelia Riehl, Miss Julia Riehl and Mrs. George Gibbons. They are daughters of the late Edward Riehl, pioneer nut grower of Illinois and former president of the Illinois Horticultural society.

It was Riehl who discovered a way to graft American and Japanese chestnuts, producing a new variety that outlasted the other two for sweetness and fineness of grain.

Learned From Dad
Under the training of her father, Miss Amelia Riehl knows about all of the secrets of planting the seed and growing the saplings, grafting the young trees, proper pruning to secure the best trees, gathering and marketing the crop.

Federal agents connected with the bureau of nut industry of the department of agriculture at Washington see great opportunities for the three sisters through a blight that has been killing trees in the eastern groves.

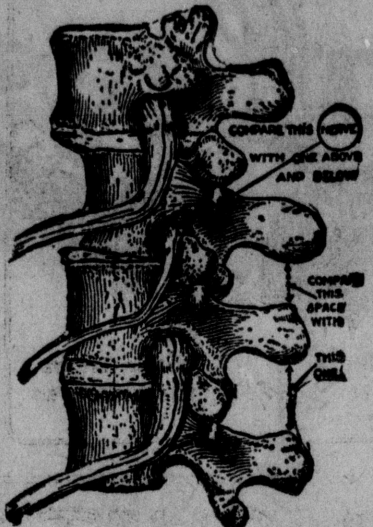

Get Bigger Yield
Two years ago the three sisters took over the business at the death of their father. Last year they produced 6000 pounds of chestnuts. This year's yield amounted to 8000 pounds.

Chestnuts are probably the surest of nut crops and rarely fail. Trees begin bearing when about six or eight years old. At twice that age they begin production of the maximum crop.

A few years ago chestnuts were a sideline of the place. Great quantities of hickory nuts, walnuts, butternuts, filberts, pecans and almonds are also grown.

BEAUTY CHATS

LINES ON THE NECK

If you have lines across your neck, begin at once to erase them. Nothing will add more to your apparent age than a wrinkled and old looking neck. And it is fairly easy to get rid of these lines.

You cannot use a very heavy cream on the face, because the skin is delicate here and too much cosmetics, or too heavy quality of cosmetics will cause eruptions and irritation and do no good. But you can treat the neck differently.

Buy a fresh building cream, even a lanoline cream. Or a cream made with cocoa butter. Or, make up your own cream according to the formula in the "Beauty" pamphlet, using cocoa butter instead of the white wax. Then scrub the neck with a soft flesh brush and hot water and soap, rinse with hot water, dry quickly and while the skin is warm and the pores still open, rub on a large amount of the cream. Rub and rub, working it into the skin with your finger tips, using a rotary motion. This not only works in the cream, it exercises and stimulates the skin and the muscles.

And then wipe off the cream, as much as a soft dry rag or soft tissue paper can take. And rub with ice. Or, if you like this treatment at bedtime, wipe off all cream from the surface of the skin and if you find that what is left in the pores works to the surface and stains the bedclothes, wear a light bandage of gauze around the neck for the night. And in the morning, rub the neck with ice.

All face treatments should include the chin and the neck. Cleansing cream on the face should be rubbed well into the neck, back and front, and ice rubbed over the face should be rubbed all over the neck too, and most especially, under the chin.

der the chin. Neck wrinkles can be kept out of sight years by this sort of treatment.

Sleeping without a pillow helps iron out these wrinkles, too.

Blue Eyes—A girl of 18 with height of five feet, two inches, should weigh about 105 to 120 pounds.

Keep These Rubbed Out
ion and shrink the enlarged pores on your face. Make the final rinse very cold after bathing your face or throat.

Miss C. C.—Try basketball to reduce this extra weight on your legs and hips. If you are overweight all over, try dieting by taking less sweets and starches.
Tomorrow—Cosmetics.

Queer Quirks of - NATURE -

NECTAR LIES IN ITS DAINTY PETALS

BY ARTHUR N. PACK

President, American Nature Ass'n.
Who of us can not remember the delight we used to feel when, as children, we found each year the dainty spurred blossoms of the columbine growing on the ledge or rocky hillside where we sought it?

What a wonderful thing it was to see again its beauty, and perhaps to taste the nectar in its ripened petals, where at the tip of its curved spur, Nature has stored in tiny bulbs the sweets that attract its wild visitors.

Only the humming bird and the largest bees can reach the honey-bulbs in the usual way, for a long tongue or bill is required, so many of the smaller insects cut into the spurs, and steal the coveted nectar.

In the eastern part of the United States we have only the red columbine, but from Minnesota westward, especially on the mountains, an exquisite blue-flowered species is found, which is the state flower of Colorado. The columbine has been proposed as the national flower but the choice of a plant for this honor is so difficult that amicable agreement is doubtful.

Those who love our graceful wild flower will scarcely wish its selection since it would be so much sought after that its existence would be endangered. Such is the fate that threatened the blue columbine in Colorado, where columbine excursions were conducted.

The fields of blossoming plants were invaded and the excursionists returned to their homes laden with wilting armfuls of their innocent victims, resulting in its becoming scarce in the very sections where the most people had an opportunity to visit its haunts.

MENUS for the FAMILY

By SISTER MARY

BREAKFAST—Stewed prunes, cereal, thin cream, eggs poached in milk on toast, milk, coffee.

LUNCHEON—Toasted vegetable sandwiches, home made pickles, cranberry jelly, grape tapioca, pudding, milk, tea.

DINNER—Noodle soup, pan-broiled pork chops, baked potatoes, corn custard, stuffed pear salad, pineapple, pie, bran rolls, milk, coffee.

The pears suggested in the dinner salad are stuffed with a mixture of peanut butter and cream cheese made moist with lemon juice. A good boiled dressing is used and the salad is garnished with a cube of cranberry jelly or red cherry.

Pineapple Pie
One small can grated pineapple (1 cup), 1-2 cup sugar, 3 table-spoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 3-4 cup water, 2 eggs, baked pie shell.

Combine pineapple, sugar and water. Cream butter and flour and stir into first mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until thick and smooth. Add yolks of eggs well beaten and cook one minute. Remove from fire and fold in whites of eggs beaten until stiff and dry. Turn into a half-baked pie shell and bake in a moderate oven for 30 minutes.

Just Folks

AMBITION

Why choose the baser role?
Why fling high dreams away?
Why desecrate the soul
For pleasure's little day?
Why not, though strong or weak,
The greater conquest seek?

Why turn your back upon
All that is fine and true?
Why waste your life as one
That sees no struggle through?
Why join with them who choose
The certain way to lose?

Boy, take the sterner way!
Aim high and strike for fame!
Lose if you must today
In honor, not in shame.
Don't choose the ways of sin
Where there's no hope to win.

Doomed at the start are they
Who neither dream nor dare,
Fail not with them, but stay,
Holding your record fair,
Then if you miss your quest
Fail, fighting for the best.

FLAPPER FANNY SA

Maybe it's the marriage rate that indicates this is the Land of the Brave.

KEEP THE JUICE
One way to retain every bit of the juice in a beefsteak is to brush it with blended butter and flour before you stick it on the broiler.

DON'T HURRY COOKING
Whenever you are cooking custards or any mixtures in which eggs are the main ingredient, a low temperature is most satisfactory.

THE TINYMITES

BY HAL COCHRAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The next place that the Tines stopped was where all finished toys were dropped. They reached the wrapping warehouse at a busy time of day. So many things they'd never seen. Their interest, "course, was very keen, and Santa said, "Unless you help, please keep out of the way."

A tribe of dwarfs were working fast. The bundles were among the last to wrap and tie and get all set to put in Santa's sleigh. Each little toy they made, you know, must be protected from the snow. That's why old Santa always made them wrap them up that way.

Then Scouty said, "I'll lend a hand. Just show me 'till I understand the way to put the paper on and tie the string up tight. It seems you have an awful task, and that's the reason why I ask to be allowed to help you out." And Santa said, "All right."

So all the Tines raced around 'till paper, toys and string were found, and then they started wrapping things as nicely as they could. Old Santa watched them for a while. The way they labored made his smile. Said he, "You're very helpful and you're doing good."

Poor Clowny tried to work too fast and then got all mixed up at last. The string that he was tying with was quite a clumsy sight. It seemed he did the wrapping wrong and "course it took him twice as long. The other Tines eyed him and then laughed out in delight.

"And now," said Santa, "I must go. Of course you Tines surely know that it's near time to hitch my husky reindeer, brave and strong."

"Oh, gee," cried Scouty right out loud. "I'll bet your reindeer make you proud. Say, if you're going to the barn, we'd like to go along."

(The Tinymites help hitch Santa's reindeer in the next story.) (Copyright, 1926, NEA Service, Inc.)

Santa Ana Register

THE entire family will appreciate for the whole year. Its daily editions carry news items, features, articles, sports items and comics that will make it a looked-for arrival.

Why not have it sent to your home? Only $7.00 a year. A six months' subscription costs $3.75. Stretch the memory of Christmas 365 days long. Outside of Orange county, $10.00 a year.

We Must Have Them
As one wanders about the shops these days, one is impressed, of course, by the vast array of things one is supposed to have, a complex array; some beautiful, necessary, luxurious, some merely grim-crack. But at the same time, their very profusion, the very casualness with which the commercial world says we must have boudoir pillows and incense burners and elderdown comforts and Maderia luncheon sets, and crystal salad plates, turns them out in such wholesale quantity that most any of us can afford luxuries today which were truly luxuries just a few years ago.

Go Easy on the Number
Of course, even in an era of low prices for luxuries, the family budget can go astray deplorably if the shopper does not use discretion on the number and kind of luxuries bought. It's not the money you don't have which plays hob in family finances today, so much as what you do with the money that you have.

CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING

Register Want Ads
All Want Ads will be placed under their proper classification. No exceptions.
Personal Situation Wanted and Furniture for sale will not be taken over the phone.
The Register will not be responsible for more than one incorrect insertion of any Want Ad ordered for more than one time, and then only by republishing. Absolutely no cash rebate allowed except at the discretion of publisher. Errors not the fault of the advertiser, which clearly lessen the value of the advertisement, will be rectified by republishing, without extra charge, within FIVE days after insertion.
The Register will not be responsible for errors due to illegible copy.
All Want Ads must be in by 11 a. m. to insure proper publication in all new editions.
BOX OFFICE REPLIES
The Register postoffice department is conducted for the benefit of patrons who wish answers to come to the office. Advertisers are furnished with identification cards which must be presented at the Register office. For the protection of our patrons, replies are not given except on presentation of box card.
No record is kept of the names and addresses of patrons using the Register postoffice, and therefore no information concerning these advertisers can be supplied. A charge is made for the words "Box A234, care The Register."

BILLY EVANS

WARNER'S BAG OF TRICKS

Looks as if Coach Glenn Warner of Stanford is up to his old tricks of putting something unusual over on the opposition, according to information I have just received from the west.

A majority of the trick plays, particularly those of a freak nature that have been pulled on the gridiron, are credited to Warner. "Pop" appears to get a kick out of his gridiron sleight-of-hand, since he is constantly thinking up something new to spring on the unsuspecting opposition.

The other day I received a letter from a prominent eastern football star of 10 years ago, now located on the coast and who still retains his old love for the game.

COAST PLAYS FOOTBALL

"They play real football out here," the letter starts. "The Stanford and Southern California teams are the equal of any in the country and there are a half dozen others close behind."

"Kear of Southern California, Bogue and Hyland of Stanford and Kelly of Montana comprise a backfield that would be hard to beat."

"This hidden ball stuff may be new in the east but Warner has been using it for years. This year 90 per cent of his plays start with a simple reverse, in which Hoffman handles the ball and then proceeds to mystify the opposition."

"Warner is still up to trick stuff. His latest has Hoffman, fullback, who is filling Ernie Nevers' shoes, as its hero."

BIG HANDS PLAY PART

"The funny part of Warner's latest stunt is that he merely makes use of Hoffman's large hands to pull his magic."

"I saw the meeting between Stanford and Southern California, a great game in which Stanford got the breaks to win 13-12. The natives of Los Angeles are still talking about the play in which Hoffman's hands, which are as big as the well-known ham, pulled the stuff. Really Hoffman can almost cover a football with his hand. At least he can conceal most of it."

"With the ball in Stanford's possession on Southern California's four-yard line, the sleight-of-hand plays was called. Southern Calif-

POLICEMEN TO MEET LEGION CHRISTMAS DAY

The Los Angeles Police department football team will play Santa Ana post No. 131, American Legion, at Poly field here Christmas day.

San Bernardino American Legion, originally scheduled to meet the local World War veterans, asked that its contract be voided because of an automobile accident that resulted in injuries to several of its star players, according to Carl Edgar, Santa Ana Legion impresario.

Records tend to show that the Los Angeles eleven will be the better drawing card anyway as the police defeated the San Bernardino outfit, 6 to 0, early in the season and also held the powerful U. S. S. Oklahoma gridders, who played Northwestern university here Thanksgiving day, to a 6 to 0 score.

Gate receipts will be divided 50-50, it is understood. Santa Ana's "cut" will go to the treasury of the Santa Ana Legion post while the Angelenos will donate their slice to the welfare fund for the widows and orphans of policemen who lost their lives in service.

"Eeny" Wilcox, manager of the Santa Ana squad, announced today that the team's last practice will be held at Poly field Christmas morning at 10 o'clock. He urged all participants to report promptly.

Santa Ana will put on the field what probably is the strongest team ever gathered for an independent game. In Bill Cole, Tevis Westgate, "Jeff" Cravath, Ferris Scott, Howard Lutz, Chet Siegel, "Buck" Flips leave nothing to be desired in the forward wall and such speed demons as Wilcox, Al Claves, Bill Clark and New Stark are capable of taking care of themselves in any man's backfield.

Tickets for the contest were to be printed today and will go on sale at downtown stores tomorrow.

nia expecting a line thrust had tightened up to meet it.

SIMPLE MAGIC STUFF
"Receiving the ball on a direct pass from center McCreery, Hoffman faked a pass to the right halfback, Bogue. As he passed Hoffman, Bogue apparently was handed the ball by that player."

"Instead Hoffman turned his arm and placing the ball behind his back, a la the play of the old Carlisle Indians when it was concealed under the sweater, dashed through the line for three yards before it was discovered he had the ball."

"Passing the line of scrimmage he brought the ball back to the proper position before being tackled. On the next play he went over for a touchdown."

"While the play could hardly be recommended because of the great possibilities of a fumble, it was pulled by Warner and quite successfully."

Have a care, Alabama! However, last season Alabama showed Washington and coast fans a few copyrighted tricks of its own.

Five new managers will battle for supremacy in the American league next year. Here they are. Three of the new managers have served their apprenticeship as players in the league—Ray Schalk, Bill Carrigan and George Moriarty. The first named is still number one backstop of the Chicago White Sox as well as manager. Dan Howley and Jack McCallister have both won fame as minor leaguers but have no particular big league background to commend them. The addition of five new managers to the American league is sure to stimulate interest in the 1927 race.

BOGUE, HYLAND BECAME GRID STARS BY PRACTICE; CARDS NOW PIN WIN HOPES ON 'EM

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Dec. 22.—Two of the outstanding backfield stars on the championship Stanford football team this season became "self made" players after they joined Coach "Pop" Warner's squad. They are Dick Hyland and George Bogue.

When Hyland first reported to Warner all he could do was run faster than any other man on the squad. This asset excited Warner's eagle eye and the veteran mentor took him off of the "goof" kick, take out a tackle, wouldn't follow interference, couldn't do anything but run like a pursued rabbit.

By the dint of his own efforts Hyland improved so that this year his passes were accurate for 30 yards, learned to follow interference if it cost him his life, and furnished immeasurably toward the Cardinals' success. The old Hyland couldn't have made any varsity team. The new Hyland was almost phenomenal, largely because he was equipped with the football instinct and was quick to correct his faults.

Bogue's rise to fame was accomplished in even less time. Early in the season no one thought Bogue was going to "make the team." George probably even at that time could have always taken the ball and gone some place, but not even Warner knew it.

Bogue was prone to "lie down" in practice. Warner read something akin to the riot act to him and the next day Bogue was a new player.

His punch, drive, speed and heady game were an inspiration to the entire team this year. Perhaps his greatest accomplishment of the year was his development into a great place kicker. Against California he booted five out of six kicks over to convert touchdowns.

Tennis' Contract Sold for $20,000

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Sid Terris, lightweight title contender, has passed to the management of Abe Katz after a protracted row with Dan Chaplin, his former manager. Chaplin sold his contract to Katz for $20,000.

BOWLING

With the Christmas holidays temporarily halting play in the various Santa Ana leagues, local bowlers began competition today in the Holiday Doubles tournament in which entering handicap averages will be computed from 190 scratch. The tourney will be complete January 3.

"Barney" Snee's 279 still stands as the best high single game shot in another special feature event for the holidays. Other high games include a 268 by George Myers, a 254 by Eddie West, a 243 by W. Patterson and a 236 by Mrs. W. Patterson.

Bogue's rise to fame was accomplished in even less time. Early in the season no one thought Bogue was going to "make the team." George probably even at that time could have always taken the ball and gone some place, but not even Warner knew it.

Two Captains Elected By Fullerton

FULLERTON, Dec. 22.—Following in the steps of Notre Dame, the football team of the Fullerton union high school last night elected two captains for 1927. Robert Hezmalhalch and Frank Del Giorgio, both linemen, were the pilots chosen.

The election of the two captains was made at a dinner given by George Buxton, retiring captain. All members of the team were present as well as the athletic directors.

Coach Needles Ill In San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Jimmy Needles, mentor of St. Ignatius college, is seriously ill today from patomane poisoning. His condition permitted him to coach his basketball team to a victory at half time by telephone last night. The Ignatians defeated Nevada, 26 to 18.

Two Browns Win Olympic Scraps

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22.—News-boy Brown took a decision from Young Nationalists and Harry "Kid" Brown won from Young Harry Wills on a foul in the double main event at the Olympic club here last night.

Nationalists and Newsboy Brown put up a typical fight with much toe-to-toe slugging and the milling was fairly even throughout.

Jackie Fields Is Victor Over Silver

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 22.—Jackie Fields, Los Angeles lightweight, mauled Jack Silver so terrifically in a Christmas charity fund bout here last night that Referee Irwin stopped the contest in the fourth round. Silver seemed only a shadow of what he was when he recently defeated Mushy Callahan.

SPEAKER SAYS TESTIMONY OF LEONARD FALSE

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Dec. 22.—Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland club of the American league, told the United Press today that testimony on file in the office of Commissioner Landis, would vindicate him of the charge of participating in a deal more than seven years ago to "throw" a game.

"I am not mentioned in the letters written to 'Dutch' Leonard by either Cobb or Wood," Speaker said. "The reason for that is plain. I knew nothing of any wagers being made on the contest or any fixing whatsoever."

"The only thing they have against me is the word of the man who is behind the entire flim-flam—Leonard. I have repeatedly requested that Leonard be brought in to face me, but he has positively refused to come in to a meeting."

"Leonard has deliberately falsified me in any statement he has made that implicates me. I never bet a penny on that or any other game and was entirely ignorant of any bets being made until June or July of this year."

Maloney Favored To Beat Persson

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Jim Maloney, Boston heavyweight, who has been promised a chance at Jack Delaney if he beats Harry Persson, Swede heavyweight, was a slight favorite today for his 10-round fight with Persson at the Garden tonight. In a 10-round semi-final, Monte Munn will meet Knute Hansen.

LANDIS, RUTH LEFT TO SAVE PRO BASEBALL

By HENRY L. FARRELL (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.—Professional baseball was saved after the 1919 world series scandal by a fat player who could hit a ball farther than any other human and by a federal jurist of celebrated fearlessness who accepted a commission to keep baseball straight.

Professional baseball still has Babe Ruth and Commissioner Landis but they are not novelties now and what the club owners will do to get the minds of the paying public off of a scandal involving two of the greatest of all time players is a question they will have to solve.

If the players involved had been of the type like those who tossed the 1919 world series to the Cincinnati Reds, the public might be pacified by the argument—baseball digs up its bones no matter how long it takes and regardless of the players involved.

Praised on Retirement
Tris Speaker, manager of the Cleveland Indians, and Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, were heralded and extolled to the skies when they announced their retirement recently.

Cobb unanimously was characterized as the greatest player of all time; the greatest fielding outfielder.

Tris Speaker, former manager of the Cleveland club of the American league, told the United Press today that testimony on file in the office of Commissioner Landis, would vindicate him of the charge of participating in a deal more than seven years ago to "throw" a game.

"I am not mentioned in the letters written to 'Dutch' Leonard by either Cobb or Wood," Speaker said. "The reason for that is plain. I knew nothing of any wagers being made on the contest or any fixing whatsoever."

The average golf professional carries a dozen clubs in his bag.

Yale and Harvard have made poor football showings in years gone by, but never in the same year did both the Crimson and Elis rank so low on the gridiron sport as was the case in the season just closed.

Leland Stanford university of Alabama and Lafayette college stand out as the only prominent teams to win all of their football games this year, and after Stanford and Alabama clash on New Year's day there probably will be only two teams able to claim victories in all their games.

Edward Blair Mitchell, a wealthy lawyer and author who died in London the other day at the age of 84, was in his early years one of the world's greatest amateur athletes. As an oarsman he was the winner of several trophies. He was the holder of the amateur walking championship of the world, and he held the amateur lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight boxing titles of England.

CONFIDENCE OF FANS IN SPORT HEROES BROKEN

Cobb, Speaker, Wood Deny Leonard's Charges That Game in 1919 Was Fixed

By CLARK B. KELSEY (United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, Dec. 22.—The greatest of organized American sports tottered today on the very foundation which made it great—the confidence of men and boys in baseball's most illustrious heroes.

When the names of Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker—grandest of baseball's grand old men—were drawn into the whirlpool of a betting scandal yesterday by Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis, none could believe it. To the average baseball fan, these names and grandstand patron alike, these charges could be nothing less than "lies, frame ups and sacrileges."

But as bulletin followed bulletin from the office of baseball's high commissioner, the idol worshippers began to question.

For from the lips of Byron Bancroft Johnson, president of the American league, in which Cobb and Speaker had played so long, came the admission that the two men had been "dropped from baseball."

Johnson Comments
"We thought of Cobb's wonderful family and of Tris Speaker's good mother," Johnson said. "We thought of Joe Wood's splendid sons at Yale university. We did not wish to punish those who were innocent and we thought Cobb and Speaker sufficiently punished when they were dropped from baseball."

The last sentence from Johnson was taken to mean that even the American league president was inclined to believe the charges of Hubert ("Dutch") Leonard that Cobb and Speaker had conspired to "frame" a baseball game and let on its result. It also served as explanation for the sudden resignation of Speaker as pilot of the Cleveland Indians less than a month ago.

And even Ty Cobb in entering his denial to participation in the alleged plot, admitted that "it was no uncommon thing for a ball player to bet on a game in those days."

Will Take No Action
The eventual settlement of the argument will come with the decision of time alone, for Landis' edict rules that as all men involved are out of baseball at the present time, no action will be taken against them by organized baseball.

Leonard's statement that the game was "framed" stands alone and is supported only by circumstantial evidence. The commissioner in a statement, said: "Of course the statement by Leonard to the commissioners in the absence of the accused is not evidence—it was put in the record only to aid in making intelligible the examinations of several witnesses who from the beginning has asked for a hearing at which Leonard could be present. With Leonard persisting in his refusal face these men, that statement proves nothing as to them."

The evidence supporting Leonard's contention that there was wagering on the game specified seems conclusive. Cobb admits he knew there was betting on the game.

Cobb Knew of Betting
Cobb's testimony and that of "Smoky" Joe Wood, another one time mol of the diamond, together with that of West, the grand keeper at the Detroit park, who posted the bet, shows that there was betting and that Cobb knew of it, but denies the knowledge of the "throwing" of any ball game.

All three testators agreed that Speaker had no knowledge of betting on the game and Wood, his roommate at the time, says he failed to even mention it to the "gray eagle." Speaker stands accused by Leonard alone.

Cobb and Wood, and indeed, even Leonard himself, say the motive for "Dutch's" revelations is the fact that Cobb tossed him out of big league baseball. Cobb called Leonard a "Bolshevik" on the club, whereas Leonard complains that the "Georgia Peach" was tyrannical and tried to overwork him.

Cobb, interviewed here last night before he left for his home in Augusta, Ga., was a broken man.

man. Tears streamed down his cheeks as he called Leonard's charge "the damndest thing that was ever pulled on a man."
The American League, through its attorney, Henry Killilea of Milwaukee, bought the letters from Leonard for $20,000, Cobb charged. The very league which he had helped make great contributed to breaking down every fine piece of baseball workmanship he had been able to build up in 21 years, he claimed.
On the other hand, Frank Navin, owner of the Detroit Tigers, claimed that Cobb quit under fire when the first mention of the scandal arose.
Speaker's resignation came December 11. It was not unexpected, but no reason could be found why he should wish to quit the club which he had given one world's championship and which at the end of the 1926 baseball season seemed to be about the best in the American league.

MEXICAN SUICIDES
ARE ON INCREASE

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 22.—Suicide as a solution for all kinds of troubles is gaining popularity among Mexicans with rapid strides. During the last year, 48 men and 12 women killed themselves in Mexico City alone. Among the suicides was a justice of the supreme court.
Justice Garza's only excuse for bidding farewell to life was that he was "tired of everything." His political future was bright, his health robust and financial condition good; no breath of scandal had touched his public or private life. Unmarried, he had no home troubles and so far as is known, no love affairs.
Tired of things and resolved to undertake the Great Adventure, Justice Garza during the last few days of his life gave away many thousands of pesos to charitable institutions, put the rest of his estate in condition to be passed on to his heirs without complications, and blew out his brains.
Mexicans who decide on suicide have a higher average of effectiveness in carrying out their intentions than Americans. While in the United States the average of successful attempts at self-destruction is less than 50 percent, in Mexico it is well over 80, perhaps because Mexicans are more expert with firearms. The record for the past decade is 240 suicides and but 44 unsuccessful attempts.
The reasons assigned for suicide are about the same in Mexico as in the United States, but with misadventures in love more frequently and financial reverses less often the given cause than Americans.

EVENING SALUTATION

Let tomorrow take care of tomorrow,
Leave things of the future to fate;
What is the use to anticipate sorrow?
Life's troubles come never too late.
If to hope overmuch is an error,
Tis one that the wise have preferred;
And how often have hearts been in terror
Of evils—that never occurred!

GET RID OF SLOT MACHINES

The city of Fresno has commenced a campaign to rid the city of candy slot machines, of which Santa Ana has quite a plenty. Up in Fresno, which city has never been noted as especially strait-laced, these slot machines are looked upon as gambling devices. It is presumed that Fresno has had experience enough with gambling to know a gambling device when it sees one.

Santa Ana has not yet joined the growing, long list of cities that have outlawed the candy slot machines. Of course, nobody has any objection to any legal method that may be employed to further the sale of any particular kind of candy, but these machines are not operated for that purpose. The profit is not in the sale of the candy; it is the spirit of gambling that brings the profit.

Santa Ana might very well start the year 1927 officially by refusing further to license slot machines. Fresno has set us an example. Fresno, it seems, is getting its slot machines off the streets by Christmas.

TREATMENT FOR DRUG ADDICTS

It always seems risky, and possibly unwise, to spread reports of "dope cures," because drug addiction is so dreadful a thing, and so widespread, and so many hopes of alleviation have been blighted. A new treatment reported in New York seems too good to be true. Yet it is well vouched for, and may be worth watching.

The New York Medical Journal and Record prints a remarkable medical report covering experiments made with hundreds of patients in Correctional Hospital on Welfare Island. It is signed by three authorities on drug addiction, one of them Dr. Alexander Lambert who gave to the world, some years ago, the so-called "Townes-Lambert treatment," and who used to be known as "Roosevelt's physician." The discoverer is A. S. Horowitz, described as a biochemist from Hungary who came to America just before the war.

Of 366 cases subjected to this treatment, it is stated, only one is known to have lapsed into the use of drugs after discharge from the hospital. Nothing so effective has been known before.

Treatments for drug addiction usually cause great suffering during administration, and leave the patient worn out. The patients undergoing treatment by the new method are described as "smiling and singing, and even crocheting with steady hands." It is said to be effective with all kinds of drugs, including alcohol.

There are probably more than a million Americans who in some manner or other have become addicted to drugs which are wrecking their bodies and minds, and which they seem unable to avoid. Narcotic drugs have been declared the greatest menace of modern civilization. If the claims for this new cure are upheld in further experiments, it will be an inestimable boon to humanity.

SPAIN AND SPANISH AMERICA

Spain had an ambition to organize a Spanish League of Nations. Having decided to withdraw from the League at Geneva, she started in to group around her all of the Spanish-American countries. That would revive, in a way, the old glory of Spain. Spanish culture would thrive and Spanish prestige would rise.

The scheme looked promising, but it has failed to work. Not one Spanish-American country followed Spain's example in withdrawing from the League. Efforts to make treaties and understandings binding Spain's new world offspring to her more closely have met with polite coldness.

It does not mean exactly a triumph for the United States. Uncle Sam and his Monroe Doctrine are far from popular at present in Latin-America. But the Central and South American countries are obviously convinced that there is nothing to be gained by following old world leadership, and that they are better off as a new world group in the big League of Nations than as mere supporters of any European power. Which, by the way, bodes well for all the Americas.

BARKLESS DOGS

City people nowadays are often annoyed by barking dogs—their neighbor's dogs. There is a remedy which does not involve poisoning the dog or persuading the dog catcher to kidnap him. Philadelphia is producing barkless dogs.

It is not a new breed but a surgical process of denaturing. A veterinary, with a snip of his shears or a slash of his scalpel, cuts the vocal chords and debarks the dog. After that, he may live a long and harmless life.

But not, it may be observed, a useful or happy life. What dog could be happy or express happiness without a bark, any more than without a tail? And what master, when you get right down to plain facts, would want a dog that couldn't bark?

A dog unable to express his joy or woe, and incapable of operating as a burglar alarm or greeting his master or sharing vocally in the children's play, is just about as good as no dog at all. They may as well kill poor Rover and be done with it.

NEWS IN THE ADS

A story is going around of a San Antonio, Texas, newsboy who tried something different in selling papers. It was on a day when the news had few thrills and his business was consequently dull. The newsie looked through his papers and found something he could use—on the advertising papers.

"Bargain—bargain!—bargain!" he shouted. "All about the big sale—department store slashes prices—fall dresses at cut rates—buy 'em cheap!"

He got immediate results. Women who didn't have pennies bought papers with dimes and nickels and didn't care about their change.

The newsie was a good salesman. And he wasn't cheating his public. The advertising pages do carry news of genuine interest to a large proportion of readers. Sometimes the ads tell more significant news than the news columns.

Also, it ought to be a lot pleasanter to hear newsboys shouting about bargains and sales than about murders and suicides. We hope that newsie started something that others will take up and carry on.

California Not So High

Riverside Press

About once in so often somebody in California breaks loose with a tirade about the "tax ridden" people of California. This is a growing, progressive state; and including taxes for local purposes the total is fairly high. In most cases however the money is efficiently expended and the people are pretty well satisfied with the results. So far as the cost of state government is concerned California is by no means any "horrible example"; a number of states, east and west, show a higher per capita cost for state expenses.

The following figures are compiled from a bulletin just issued by the department of commerce. They are for the year 1925:

State	Per Capita Cost
Vermont	$14.27
Connecticut	14.46
New York	15.14
North Dakota	22.73
South Dakota	16.97
Delaware	18.87
Wyoming	23.53
Nevada	29.90
Oregon	15.01
California	16.37

It will be noted that governmental costs in California are practically the same per capita as in the Empire state where Governor Smith has given a very efficient administration for four terms. The cost moreover is only slightly higher than in the frugal New England states of Vermont and Connecticut.

A policy of economy is to be commended to the new state administration that will come in after January 1; but it is well to bear in mind that the present basis of state costs does not show extravagance as compared to other states.

Subnormal Legal Ethics

Riverside Press

The famous McPherson case in Los Angeles is about the worst example of what ought not to be in the matter of criminal jurisprudence the country has ever been given. We can only hope that they are subnormal, for if not, then legal ethics in California have fallen to a low ebb. It is difficult to determine whether it is just a game of bluff the two sides are carrying on or merely one grand lallyhoo all around. The latest comic opera performance is over a missing witness. For the past five months both sides have been claiming that he must be found, as he is the key to the whole matter, but neither found him. Finally, when he was located by a newspaper seeking notoriety and prestige, neither side appeared to be eager to have him appear on the scene. The prosecuting officer asserted that he was a very important witness for the defense, possibly as an alibi for not having shown more diligence in securing the arrest, and the defense attorney said he would be happy if the elusive witness never came back.

Los Angeles has been "stealing in its own juice" over this matter for half a year, and much of the heat of the cooking has spread all over the country. It has cost a pretty penny and unless there is much under the surface that has never been brought to the top, it will cost much more and then end in a flare. A prosecuting officer must have a pretty poor case when he tries it in the newspapers. Every possible clue and theory of the prosecution has been exploited in the press in such a way as to show conclusively that the information came direct from the prosecutor's office. Exhibits have been loaned the press from which to make pictures before they were used in court and many have thus been given to the public as vital evidence that were not later introduced in court at all. Theories and clues declared to be vital and conclusive have been given out for publication and then abandoned because they did not "stand up."

FLOWERS CARRY POISON

Some persons are especially sensitive to contact with toxic substances derived from plants. The poison ivy, oak, and sumac may cause severe eruptions of the skin in persons susceptible.

When mah-jong first became popular, many persons had eruptions of the fingers and of the skin of the face from contact with the lacquer on the mah-jong boxes, due to a special sensitivity that they possessed to a poison in the lacquer which it was discovered had been made by utilizing the juices of certain Japanese plants.

Now a British physician has discovered eruptions on the hands of some persons from the handling of flower bulbs, and has given the name "florid rash" to this type of disturbance.

It followed the cutting of the stems of the flowers, chiefly the narcissus, and from handling of bulbs of the hyacinth, daffodil, narcissus and tulip.

An investigation was made in several establishments devoted to the sale of bulbs, and a small portion of packers and sorters of bulbs were found to be suffering from an eruption extending under the nail, where splitting of the skin caused considerable pain.

The longer the nails were worn, the more severe was the condition. Moreover, the inflammation of the skin, which occurred after a few days' work in handling the bulbs, was progressive until the worker began to use gloves.

All the workers were inclined to blame the tulip bulbs. Some of the observers thought that the eruptions were due to friction from the rough sides of the bulbs, and were ready to place the responsibility on the hyacinth, narcissus and daffodil.

An investigation showed, however, that the tulip bulb is surrounded with a single layered covering which spreads easily and that it holds a somewhat acid juice. When this juice was applied to the skin underneath the finger nail it promptly produced irritation, even without any breaking of the skin due to rubbing.

The obvious suggestion is that persons who are likely to handle tulip bulbs in any considerable numbers ought to wear protective gloves.

Taking Herself Out for a Joy Ride

Christmas Good Cheer

Everyone is merry with Christmas cheer, and everything has donned its Christmas garb to a delightful degree, and as we awake and salute the happy morn we rejoice and are thankful for the day with its many glad greetings of friends who love us and who meet us with a smile or send greetings of tenderness and love.

The Christmas tree with its gay trimmings reminds us of the star in the heavens, the Christmas songs peal forth anew their message of triumph as our souls worship at this festival of little children. Our hearts are touched by these simple, unaffected little ones, and we are proud of their likeness and worthiness as we gather at this cradle festival. We share in the joys of the child whether it be at his Yuletide party or as he jubilantly views all sorts of toys from the shop windows or draws back abashed at the entrance of a live Santa Claus.

The home takes on an added tenderness, and we meditate its sanctity and affections and our love for it increases. The family exile returns, and although space may separate some of its members, the Christmas spirit renews the broken circle.

We enjoy anew old sacred songs and legends clustering around the origin of the day and myths which have descended to us as an inheritance, and both song and legend are filled with sacred thought, fresh splendor, and beautiful inspiration. Our carols and anthems join the triumph of the skies as we sing with Lowell:

For they who to their childhood cling,
And keep their natures fresh as morn,
Once more shall hear the angels sing,
Today the Prince of Peace is born.

—Mabel G. Wing, Santa Ana, Calif.

Worth While Verse

Were there no Christmas—had not the Christ-Child lived on earth,
Would childhood have known bliss, or motherhood true charm;
Would home have been a place where dwelleth joy and mirth;
Where floweth gifts from love that naught can e'er disarm?
Had not Christ lived within the flesh and walked with men,
(The Christ who still doth plead in human hearts to dwell),
Yea, braved each storm through love transcending human ken;
Would brotherhood have known strength that no power can quell?
Would ever man have known the Father's love—His grace;
The love that ever longs to save and bless each soul;
Had not the Royal Babe smiled into Mary's face?
Yea, love that longs to see again creation whole!
Ah! what of life the meaning—with no Christmas morn?
Lands Christless all speak—and men who have been twice born!

—Mary C. Warnock.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was just starting to read the sporting page and ma was wawing around pushing crooked things state and state things crooked, saying, "How about the movies tonite, Willyum?"

There's no place like home, pop sed.

And he put his feet up and starts to blow smoke, and ma sed, O Willyum, speaking of the movies, I'd almost forgotten what a heavy lover you were when we were engaged, hee hee, I came across these old letters of yours today, I found 2 of them in an old book and I kept them out to show you.

Yee gods, lets have them, pop sed.

And he stretched out his hand and ma sed, No, I think I'd rather read them to you, this first one is as sweet as it can be, you start in by saying, My own little buttercup, do you remember when you use to call me your buttercup, Willyum?

You must be thinking of some other fellow, hand them over, I'll read them, pop sed, and ma sed, No, listen, My own little buttercup, it seems a million years since I saw you last insted of just a few hours, izent that perfectly sweet, Willyum?

It duzzent sound like my writing, lets have it, pop sed, and ma sed, And heer a little further down you compare me to a rosebud in a forest of cabbages, izent that the cutest comparison, Willyum?

And wait till I read you the other letter, its even sweeter, she sed.

Did you say something about the movies? pop sed.

Why yes, do you want to go, Willyum? ma sed.

Immeditly, pop sed. And he went and took the letters and put them in his coat pocket and him and ma went to the movies.

A Substitute Santa

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

In Six Parts—Part I

HOW IT ALL HAPPENED

IT was with immense surprise that I learned, as a child, that not all countries have a Santa like ours. It was a little hard to believe one could possibly have a Merry Christmas without hanging up stockings and waiting for Santa, but I learned that Santa is only the personification of the spirit of giving and that this spirit is the same the world over, even though its personal representation may assume a different shape. It is with the purpose of giving the children some idea of the customs attending Christmas Eve in different lands that the following rhyme is written.

THE reindeer were harnessed at Santa Claus' door

While a stable boy elf-man stood holding each head,

For 'twas time for old Santa to start with his toys,

But there he was, wrapped up in flannel instead.

He had caught a bad cold, getting hot in the shop

And packing the toys mountain-high in his sleigh.

So he sat by his fire, too achy to start,

And here it was Christmas the very next day!

He had taken much calomel, quinine and pills

And drunk fifteen quarts of hot, strong catnip tea.

He'd had a hot foot bath of mustard and salt

And still he was wobbly and weak as could be.

With a shiver he moaned, "It just never will do

To disappoint children because of sore throat.

Especially those who have been very good;

So staggering weakly he pulled on his coat

Just then Mrs. Santa came hurrying in

And cried, "Now see here, you're just sick with the grippe,

You take off that coat and get right into bed,

And I'll dress in your clothes and be Santa this trip.

I'll carry your costumes to wear in each land,

And take Brumby Bok, the head elf-man, along

To lift out the toys and to drive the reindeer

And lend me a hand if a thing should go wrong.

I always have wanted to go on this trip,

And now is the first chance that's come to my hand;

To watch all the children enjoying their toys

And see Christmas Evening in civilized lands."

She dressed in a wink and bade Santa good-bye,

Then away o'er the tops of the glaciers she whirled

In the sleigh that is drawn by the magic reindeer

To play Santa Claus to all lands of the world.

An Exposition Which Failed

New York World

Philadelphia closes the gates of her sesquicentennial exposition to-day a wiser and sadder city. The financial loss almost merits the word staggering. Payments from the municipal treasury are placed at $18,000,000; various city departments have made additional expenditures; $3,000,000 in "participation certificates" sold to the public seem to be worthless; and there is a deficit of $5,200,000 to be met. The paid attendance has been less than 5,000,000, or about half that at the Centennial a half century ago. San Francisco did far better with her Panama-Pacific exposition. It attracted 18,500,000 people, and after giving the city a costly auditorium declared profits of more than $1,000,000. Worst of all, Philadelphians realize that their exposition fell as far short of artistic as of business success.

Doubtless the main reason for the failure can be summed up in the word mismanagement. It was mismanagement which delayed the enterprise until on the opening day it looked like a raw real estate development. Mismanagement antagonized the conservative church organizations. It was mismanagement which, allowing city and exposition finances to mingle too closely, gave rise to injurious and persistent stories of graft. Greatest of all was the error of emphasizing too much the sesquicentennial and too little the exposition. The officers seemed to have believed that patriotic Americans would flock to Philadelphia simply because this is the 150th year since 1776. They failed to provide exhibits, foreign and domestic, which would attract Americans as did the exhibits at St. Louis and San Francisco.

Do It Now!

It's a trite, old-fashioned saying,
But its rule is worth obeying:
There's no merit in delaying—
Do it now!

When Old Man Procrastination
Counsels you to hesitation,
Don't be fooled by his oration—
Do it now!

If you wait until tomorrow,
You are mighty sure to borrow
Fifty-seven kinds of sorrow;
Do it now!
Duty never should dismay you;
Circumstances will repay you
If you let no force delay you;
Do it now!

Men grow old and gray from worry;
Always late, and in a hurry,
Life to them is one grand flurry—
Do it now!
You have work to do this minute;
Put determination in it!
Why on earth don't you begin it?
Do it now!
